Are You an Ant or a Grasshopper?

Remember Aesop's story of the Ant and the Grasshopper? How the Grasshopper sang all summer long with no thought of the coming winter, while the Ant worked and stored up a supply of necessities for use during the cold weather?

If you do you'll also remember that the Grasshopper froze to death while the Ant lived to enjoy life for many moons thereafter.

MUCH EXTRAVAGANCE IN PENS
But Oliver Wendell Holmes is Said to Have Written Twelve Million Words With One.
"For two years," announces one of those eccentric persons who make a business of collecting strange and startling facts, "Thackeray did all his writing with one pen, which also served him for writing two novels. Oliver Wendell Holmes used a gold pen for more than thirty years, during which he wrote 12,000,000 words."
That, we may consider, is genuine pen conservation, and it may be typical of a general economy that was far more prevalent in the days of Thackeray and Holmes than it is today, observes a writer in the Providence Journal. Pens in the last quarter century have come to be rather lightly esteemed by most persons who find a continual use for them. One throws away an old pen and puts a new one in the penholder with little thought of the potential waste. A gold pen, of course, is exceptionally durable, as a rule, but the one that performed service for Doctor Holmes for more than thirty years must have been a marvel. Anyway, it was obviously a far better one than the one that served Thackeray for only two years. His was probably an old-time quill pen, but even then a quill pen that would last through the writing of two novels as extensive as those produced by Thackeray must be regarded with profound respect.
This economy in the use of writing utensils seems awe-inspiring today. In the past ten years we personally have knocked out two typewriters and have started on our third and in that time have probably turned out less than half the number of words that Doctor Holmes produced with his little old gold pen. And when you come to think of the comparative values of the words the reflection becomes positively humbling.

NEWSY NOTES FROM LISLE AND BELMONT

A. PORTER, Correspondent
Telephone 152-R-2
LISLE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES
Sunday school at 10 a. m. Everybody welcome.
Mr. John Murphy passed away Saturday night at his home in Lisle at the age of 80 years. He has lived in Lisle for the past 8 years with his two daughters, who now mourn his loss. Funeral services were held at St. Joseph's church in Downers Grove and he was laid to rest in the family lot at Calvary cemetery.
Ermin Riedly, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Riedly, had the misfortune to fall from a cherry tree and break his right arm. The bone was badly splintered.
Miss Margaret Rogers has graduated from Wisconsin University and is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rogers at Warwood Farm.

A large number of women were out to the demonstration given by Mrs. Burgess of Wheaton on the flour substitutes at the church parlors Tuesday afternoon. Everyone felt well repaid for going.
Herman Schultz, Thomas Dobbs and Arthur Porter attended the Threshers meeting held at the Court house at Wheaton Saturday afternoon and new rules as to the threshing and taking care of the grain were drawn up and prices set for threshing the grain.
