"UNCLAIMED GOODS"

Latest Paramount Vehicle Said to be One of the Finest in which Vivian Martin has ever appeared.

Down in her heart, Betsy Burke, daughter of Sheriff Burke, has great admiration for the many qualities of "Cocoph Kid," a would-be tough man so when he gets into a scrape and falls into the hands of the Sheriff, Betsy pleads for him with her father. "Cocoph Kid" is released and Betsy begs him to prove himself a real man, which he fervently promises to do when the chance presents itself.

Sheriff Burke is called to Chicago suddenly and he resolves to send Betsy to Uncle Jim Murphy at Gold Center. There being a gold rush on at the time, the Sheriff is unable to find accommodation for Betsy on the train and he is obliged to send her by express. This arrangement concluded Betsy is entrusted to the care of Danny Donegan, the express agent at Gold Center.

Among the miners who have made Gold Center their headquarters, are several scoundrels under the leadership of "Gentleman Joe" Slade, a gambler of ill repute. With his men, Slade has succeeded in imprisoning all decent citizens and is holding them in custody while his men are looting the town. Among those imprisoned by Slade is Uncle Murphy, who is thereby unable to claim her or pay the express charges and his niece in consequence, is held at the express office as "unclaimed goods."

This novel situation begins as a joke, and Betsy and Danny are having a good time of it when Slade, after having seen and admired Betsy, learns the truth. He demands that Danny, as express agent, carry out the provisions of the law regarding unclaimed goods, and to sell the girl at auction when the legal thirty days allowed consignees in which to recover unclaimed goods, has expired.

Slade and his cut-throats meanwhile have cut off communication between Gold Center and the outside world and the opportunity for "Cocoph Kid" to prove himself a real man, now presents itself. He gallops to a nearby town and telegraphs the Sheriff Sheriff Burke who hastens westward on the next train. "Cocoph Kid" returns to Gold Center and arrives just as the auction sale of the "unclaimed goods" at the express office is about to take place.

Danny refuses to call the auction, whereupon Slade and his men take matters in hand. Slade has just bid thirty cents for Betsy when "Cocoph Kid" enters and bids against him. This provokes a battle in which "Cocoph Kid," Danny and Betsy hold off the Slade band until a posse headed by Burke reaches the scene. Slade seeks revenge upon "Cocoph Kid" whom he shoots, but the latter returns the fire with fatal effect.

The bandits are dispersed and "Cocoph Kid," having fulfilled Betsy's admonition to be a real man, dies after joining the hands of Betsy and Danny. Will be shown at the Dicke Theatre, Tuesday, July 9th.

Why We Fight No. 3

Because Germany Having Split the World in Half Is Now Trying to Devour the Halves

By CLARENCE L. SPEED Secretary of the War Committee of the Union League Club of Chicago.

We are fighting Germany, for one thing, because Germany, having split the world in half, is now seeking to devour the halves separately. She has driven a wedge straight through the heart of Europe, and into Asia, and is seeking to extend it to the Persian gulf.

This is no accidental happening, due to the downfall of Russia and the sudden shifting in the fortunes of war. Germany planned it all decades ago. She made no effort to keep the plans secret. She told us all about it. She had a reputation for making plans and sticking to them, from one generation to another; yet the world paid no attention. It seemed too preposterous even for Germany to attempt.

As long ago as 1895 a pamphlet, "Pan-Germany and Central Europe About 1950," was published in Berlin and had wide circulation. It laid the whole Mitteleuropa plan bare as follows:

"Poland and Little Russia (the kingdom to be established at Russia's expense) will agree to have no armies of their own, and will receive in their fortresses German and Austrian garrisons. In Poland, as well as in Little Russia, the postal and telegraph services as well as the railways will be in German hands."

In 1911 Tannenbergs book, "Greater Germany" was published. This was only three years before the war, but it showed that the idea of a German Mitteleuropa had not been allowed to languish. It says:

"The new kingdom of Poland is made up of the former Russian portion of the basin of the Vistula, and of Galicia, and forms a part of the new Austria."

How the plan has grown since then! Russia's collapse dropped whole provinces into the lap of the Kaiser, and now Germany plans its empire on a scale which would dwarf that of ancient Rome. It is to embrace the original Central Europe, inhabited by some 73,000,000 Germans, make the Black sea a German lake, and extend clear to the Persian gulf through the vassal states of Bulgaria and Turkey.

The German government started to put its scheme for a Mitteleuropa in effect years ago when it began the construction of the Berlin-to-Bagdad railway. Little Serbia stood in the way, so Serbia was attacked and the world was plunged into war. In the opposite corner of Europe Belgium was invaded and crushed. The world then thought that this was only because Belgium offered the easiest route to France; but study of the Mitteleuropa plan of years ago shows that Belgium was included in the scheme of conquest.

"How does all this affect America?" one may ask. Germany was a late comer in the family of great nations. Most of the uncivilized world had been preempted by other nations before she arrived. Germany wanted colonies. To get them she would have to take them away from someone else.

Africa and South America offered the best fields for German colonization. England possessed the best part of Africa—the parts in which the white man might hope to settle and thrive. England had a mighty fleet, and a disposition to hold what she had, even though she did not show a disposition to fight for more.

There remained South America. It was divided among weak nations. It was protected only by the Monroe doctrine. This Monroe doctrine was a sacred thing to Americans, but, not being backed up by mighty armies and fleets, was not even a "scrap of paper" to the Germans. Can anyone doubt should Germany succeed in welding into a mighty empire the 73,000,000 Germans and the 100,000,000 inhabitants of the vassal and conquered states of her Mitteleuropa, that her next step would be toward the west?

The very fact that she had this empire would presuppose the defeat of England, so that no British fleet would stand between us and Germany when the time came for the Kaiser to send his legions across the Atlantic.

"As in the East, so in the West," is a motto which, of recent weeks, has been much heard in Germany. At a conference of the national liberal party, held in March of this year, the following amazingly frank declaration was made:

"Our policy has been directed to making the government and majority turn away from the reichstag resolution of July 19. (Peace without annexations and indemnities). In that we have succeeded, Peace has just been made in the East under conditions in flat contradiction to the policy of July 19, and has received the support and assent of all the bourgeois parties."

In other words, all Germany is now planning both annexations and indemnities, such as will leave her without a formidable opponent in the world.

Can we make peace now and leave Germany, flushed with victory, in possession of all she has gained and lust for further conquest? If we did, would not the whole world live in perpetual terror of German aggression, each country awaiting its turn to be gobbled up? Can any red-blooded American talk about peace without victory—victory so decisive that Germany will be forced to disgorge all it has seized, and the German menace be removed from the world forever?

TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO IN THE REPORTER

(From the issue of July 9, 1896)

Mrs. A. C. Kingman of Battle Creek, Mich., is visiting her brother, W. H. Edwards this week.

Miss Mattie Vernon of Ottawa, Ill., visited her sister, Mrs. F. C. Lancaster, over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chambers of Chicago, called on their sister, Gertrude, at L. P. Naramore's Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. W. Forkel and little son, of Lanark, Ill., visited her father, M. E. Stanger, Monday, returning home Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Rodden and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hickok, of Douglas Park, spent the Fourth with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnhart.

A junior baseball team was organized last Monday evening, having Leon Schofield for captain; E. Escher manager; Lee Stanley secretary and treasurer.

An unnecessary deprecation early Saturday morning was the burning of a box of goods belonging to A. J. Thompson. Such acts of lawlessness should be severely punished.

We are glad to see Ed Wooten able to be out again. He had a hard spell and is quite weak, but good care, a splendid physical system and pluck pulled him through.

A party of local sports went to Lemont last Monday night to witness a glove contest. When they arrived at Lemont they found that the fight would take place at Willow Springs, at which place they arrived in time to witness a five-minute fake "go" between two third-class pugilists.

The Rebekah's installed officers last Tuesday evening. Mrs. Holt, N. G., Miss Cora Escher V. G. and Miss Cora Blodgett, secretary. Appointive officers were also installed. Mrs. Bradbury is delegate to the Grand Lodge.

Frank Steere's horse and wagon made a record breaking trip down the street last Monday. No damage resulted.

W. D. Smith, Lewis Roth and Allen Barnhart attended the ball game in Chicago yesterday and saw the Chicago's meet defeat by the Baltimore's.

PROSPERITY BUILT ON VICE

Portuguese City of Macao Has Long Been Known as the Monte Carlo of the Orient.

Macao is said to be the most prosperous bit of Portuguese territory in the world. It is the famous "Monte Carlo of the Orient," where gambling and a considerable opium traffic have their headquarters. Both these vices are ones to which the Chinese are particularly addicted, and Macao has become a great resort for the wealthier Chinese natives.

It lies on a sandy peninsula, half way on the trip between Hongkong and Canton. The Portuguese acquired it in the olden time when they were the most daring explorers and traders in the world. Their descendants live there still, but they have mingled and intermarried with the Chinese until what amounts to a new race has been produced in the native-born Portuguese colony in Macao.

Macao is a prosperous city, as most capitals of the god of chance are wont to be. Various gambling games are played, but the favorite is fan-tan, over which the Chinaman can develop an apparently disproportionate amount of excitement. In fan-tan, a number of coins or counters are hidden under a bowl, and the players bet on how many will be left when the coins have been counted off in fours. Simplicity can go no farther, but it is possible to lose as much money over this primitive form of gambling as over the most complicated variety known to the West.

Chinese are the greatest gamblers in the world. They will bet on anything from the weather to the weight of a horse, whether they can afford to lose or not. A wealthy Chinese merchant will win and lose fortunes with an air of philosophic nonchalance, while the poorest coolies will drop a week's pay in ten minutes without permitting the impassive gravity of his countenance to be marred by anything more than a pained frown.

Keeping Warm in Finland.

In many ways the Finns are a very queer people. It is during the terrible cold months that the Finns revel in the mighty ovens that fill one corner of every kitchen and often loom up large and vastly impressive in the other rooms of a Finn home as well. The tops of these monster stoves are perfectly flat, and steps lead up on one side. When the weather becomes bitterly cold and bleak, the entire Finnish family will take quilts and pillows and, mounting to the top of the big heater, spread down their bedding and sleep very comfortably and contentedly on the hard hot bricks until morning.—Nevia C. Winter, in Christian Herald.
