TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO IN THE REPORTER

(From the issue of July 16, 1896.) R. D. Parker is improving his lot on Gilbert Ave.

The Dicke Manufacturing Co., has shut down for a week for repairs. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burns were made happy last Sunday over the arrival of a son.

Rose M. Bunning spent last week visiting friends at Morton Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Colwell are spending their vacation in St. Joe, Mo., as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster.

G. H. Bunge will leave next week for Los Angeles, Calif., having in charge one of those popular tourist excursions which the Burlington Route is sending out every few weeks.

John Nash is quite sick. He is threatened with a fever and is prostrated with overwork and weakness.

Howard Elliott Fairweather and his sister, Furnee, entertained about 40 of their young friends at their home on Belmont street, last Monday.

Miss Matilda Hoffert, who left the first part of the month for California, was married last week at Sacramento to a Mr. Golish, a popular young business man of that city.

The members of the Baptist choir and their friends to the number of about seventy-five, have chartered the lake steamer "City of Louisville" and will leave Chicago next Monday evening for St. Joseph, Mich., where they will spend a few days boating, fishing, etc. A pleasant trip is anticipated.

THEN IT CAME HOME TO HER

Moment When Henrietta Realized That There Were Dishonest People in the World.

Henrietta Ward looked at the change the conductor had just given her—a quarter and five nickels. "Goodness," she thought excitedly, "he's given me a nickel over! I'm riding for nothing!"

And she quickly closed her hand over the change, and then she remembered that the conductor had rung up her fare and that probably the nickel would have to come out of his own pocket.

"Oh, dear!" she thought remorsefully. "Perhaps the poor man has a large family and perhaps a nickel a day is all he can afford to feed them with. I suppose I really ought to return it to him. But no, he has a bad face—I shouldn't be surprised if he beats his wife every day, and it would serve him right to suffer for his own carelessness! Still, of course, I wouldn't like to feel that I am depriving his baby of its daily bucket of milk, so, I'll keep it—a man in his position has no moral right to have a large family. Goodness, what if he should suddenly find out he gave me too much and demand it back again? I think I'll get right out—I'm only ten blocks from home, anyway."

And at the next stop she hurriedly left the car, still clutching the quarter and five nickels in her hand.

"I'd better look again—perhaps there are only four nickels after all," she thought. And she opened her hand and looked. No, there were five, but as she looked, the quarter slipped through her fingers and fell on the pavement—with a hollow, leaden sound.

"Oh!" she gritted through her teeth. "The dishonesty of this world!"

FIERCE WAR OVER ELEPHANT

People of Siam and Pegu Contended for Generation to Secure Possession of the Animal.

Believing that Buddha lived again in the body of a white elephant, a devastating war was fought in the sixteenth century between Siam and Pegu for possession of the handsome animal. For a generation the struggle continued, and in it five kings came to the throne, only to die together with thousands of their subjects. A white elephant is exceedingly rare, but is simply an albino and by no means snow colored. In 1882 Barnum, not from a religious motive, brought one from Siam at a cost of $200,000.

Frequent mention is made of elephants in the history of ancient wars. The Roman armies fed at their first appearance in their early conflicts with the Carthaginians, but by the use of torches soon learned to break up a charge of the huge beasts. Alexander encountered them in his conquest of Asia.

The elephant looks stupid and his brain is small for his size, only as large as a man's, but it is highly developed, and few animals are more intelligent. They are used as beasts of burden in India, where they are regarded with superstitious awe by their drivers.

Intelligent insects. The arts of weaving and rope and netmaking are practiced by some of the lower forms of life, notably among caterpillars and spiders. The weaver birds of Africa and India, which are a species of finch, construct wonderful nests out of leaves by sewing them together.

Mid-Summer Sale on Oxfords, Pumps and Slippers. Big Reductions on broken lines and small sizes. Some are at Half Price. See our window for Prices. Morris Shoe Store, 32 South Main St. Downers Grove
