Bastile Day, July 14, the French Republic national holiday, was observed and celebrated this year on land and sea by American land and Navy forces under special orders in like manner as is observed the American Fourth of July.

Mrs. Stanley McCormick, in charge of the department of food production and home economics of the woman's committee, Council of National Defense, gives this advice to farmerettes: "Watch your feet . Don't ignore footwear. You must have a rood spinal column to keep up with good job. The condition of the pinal column depends greatly on the feet. Be picturesque if you wish, but be sensible. Wear good stout boots to preserve health."

First Artesian Well. The first artesian well to be bored in Europe of which data is available is the tube well at Grenelle, in France which was sunk by the French government between 1834 and 1842, in the hope of obtaining a sufficient supply of water for Paris. The depth is 1,798 feet, at which level a prolific supply of water was reached.
