Laying of the new corner stone of the new Court House at Wheaton occurs next Monday with elaborate exercises and ceremonies including parades, addresses, music etc.

The meat markets here will hereafter be closed on Sunday, the several proprietors having gone into an agreement to that effect. Customers should remember that fact and get their meat on Saturday.

An old railroad man, having been converted, was asked to lead in prayer. The following was the response: O Lord, now that I have flagged thee, lift up my feet from the rough road of life and plant them safely on the deck of the train of salvation. Let me use the safety lamp known as prudence, make all the couplings in the train with the strong links of thy love and let my hand lamp be the Bible, and heavenly Father, keep all switches closed that lead off the sidings, especially those with a blind end. O Lord, if it be thy pleasure, have every semaphore block along the line show the white line of hope that I may make the run without stopping. And, Lord, give us the Ten Commandment for a schedule, and when I have finished the run on schedule time and pulled into the great dark station of death may thou, the Superintendent of the universe, say, "Well done thou good and faithful servant come and sign the pay roll and receive your check for eternal happiness."

PITS AND SHELLS FOR MASKS

The War Department has requested the boys' and girls' clubs of the country to help collect fruit pits and nutshells, the carbon in which is used in making gas masks. Contests have been suggested among the million club members of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State agriculture colleges, which conduct the club work, to see which member, which club, which district, and which State can deliver the largest amount of material in the shortest time. Each member should try to furnish at least 200 peach pits, or 7 lbs. of shells—enough material for one gas mask. Since more and better carbon is secured from the peach pits, prunes, and plums than from other sources, boys and girls should make it their special business to see that every home in their communities saves the pits of these fruits. They should also visit the community and commercial canneries, hotels, restaurants, and bakeries. In addition seeds should be collected from dates and olives, and shells and whole nuts be saved from hickory nuts, butternuts, English and native walnuts, and hazelnuts. The material may be delivered to the local Red Cross headquarters, which are acting as central stations for collecting and shipping.

Pitt a Spendthrift

The complaint that many of our statesmen will not themselves set the fashion in economical living in wartime is not a new one. Pitt, who preached economy and forced it on the people, was himself a notorious spendthrift.

For a long time (while warden of the Cinque ports) his income was £10,000 a year, and it never fell below £8,000. Yet he was always hard up, and when he died the nation, in the throes of a great war, had to find some £40,000 to satisfy his creditors.

Examinations of Pitt's household budgets—made from time to time at his own request—showed such items as a hundredweight of butcher's meat consumed in a single week—or, more accurately, charged to Pitt's account.—London Chronicle.

Noted Healer comes to Chicago

Noted Healer, Like unto Men of Bible Times Working Miracles Before Multitudes. BORN WITH HEALING GIFT, HIS WORK A LABOR OF LOVE.

"One of the many remarkable features about Rev. Dr. Hawkins, the noted healer of modern times, is the attention he attracts everywhere he appears. Astonishing crowds of sick folks flock to him day after day everywhere he goes. The hotels in many instances would close the doors before noon. All the sick could not be treated then. Sufferers, rich and poor alike, would come from far and near that they should not be turned away. All with ailments of one sort or another.

REV. DR. HAWKINS, who consecrates his life to the wonderful work of the healing of the sick.

RHEUMATISM.

Throws Old Crutch Away and Walks After Fourteen Years

After being crippled and disabled for 14 years with Chronic Rheumatism, Mrs. Marion Eastly of Naples, Ill., comes to healer for relief. Says: (April 9, 1917). "I am so thankful for your kindness. I know I could walk as well as I ever did. I don't use my crutches around the house now and am so thankful for I have not worn out my crutches it will soon be 14 years."

Another Case.

Mrs. Nancy M. Grundy of Naples, Ill., takes healer's treatment. She writes: (May 14, 1917). "I am better. I never expected to be well again as I am now."

Walks for First Time in Six Months.

Mrs. N. L. Bradley, Soldiers' Home, Quincy, Ill., writes June 14, 1917, of her father's case. "Papa said to tell you he walked today for the first time for six months."

Health Still Continues.

Mrs. Ella Porter, Stoughton, Ill., says of healer's treatment. She writes: (May 14, 1917). "I am still continuing in health and strength to work and enjoy life."

One Treatment Does the Work.

Mrs. E. E. Prather of Rossville, Ill., says: (July 21, 1917). "I never had an opportunity to speak a word of praise for you. Since you cured the Rheumatism in my shoulders that evening in Rossville and you certainly relieved my mind as well as my body."

Restored Without Operation.

Mrs. Eva Swain thanks healer for help. Extract of letter follows: Rev. Dr. Hawkins, Iuka, Ill., April 9, 1917. Dear Dr. Hawkins: "Through your wonderful treatment I was made well of a disease which doctors said would likely require surgical operation." Yours respectfully, Mrs. Eva Swain, Iuka, Ill.

Do not allow your former prejudice or lack of understanding of such a great work as this keep you away; come and see for yourself; there is greater hope through God's Eternal Power than mortal man has ever dreamed.

"Power to heal the sick and afflicted comes from above," says Rev. Hawkins. "It is a divine gift, and not the power of man that heals the sick and makes them well again. Without the help of God I could do nothing. I am only an instrument in His hands."

Let the doubters doubt, and the scoffers scoff, but the truth is mighty.

A Grand Opportunity.

Such an opportunity to see a man that does such healing work as this has seldom been offered before. Take advantage of it while you have the opportunity; if you don't you may regret it.

Such a man as this with such a healing gift has seldom appeared in the world. Now and then, through the great expanse of time, some goodly man with supernatural power from above has labored long in work like his and gave his life to it and healed disease and conquered pain and bade the sick go free again in peace, in health, in happiness and life.

All Things Possible With God—You May Be Healed.

No matter what your ailment may be, or how many physicians and others have pronounced your case hopeless, you may here have the opportunity to obtain the greatest of all human blessings—Good Health—as has been experienced by so many other sick people whom no other treatment ever seemed to help before. This grand healing work which accomplishes so much for so many sick and ailing people, is sustained by the offerings of the grateful people who contribute towards the expenses of carrying on the work as they feel they can afford that the great work may not be stopped but be carried on till all be treated and none be turned away, whether rich or whether poor.

Large Crowds Expected.

Call early. Patients from a distance or out-of-town, may receive first attention. Married ladies should call with their husbands, and children with both parents.

As Rev. Dr. Hawkins does not know how many weeks he will be able to devote to treating in Chicago, it is urged that all sufferers who expect to see him, should make the visit to Chicago at the earliest opportunity.

For the convenience of all coming to him for treatment we are pleased to state that they will find the healer in his treating rooms daily until three p. m. in Room 404, of the Great Northern Building, located at 20 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN'

Celebrated Author Could Not Foresee That Her Work "Uncle Tom's Cabin" To Be On Screen

When Harriet Beecher Stowe's history-making novel, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was published in book form on March 20, 1852, that famous writer could not have foreseen the future it was to create, nor did she divine that it was to prove the death knell to slavery in the United States. She had a message to deliver to mankind, and she delivered it most effectively, for it brought on the Civil War and the subsequent emancipation of the negroes of this country.

But when Mrs. Stowe created Uncle Tom, Eva, Topsy and other characters of her celebrated story, she could not have anticipated that the creations of her brain were one day to be visualized on the screen. The motion picture art was in an embryonic stage in 1896 when Mrs. Stowe died, and the pleasure of seeing the important characters of her creation on the screen was denied her. What might she not have given for the opportunity to see Marguerite Clark as Eva and us Topsy in the same scene? Even for those who have read the book and seen the play, the Paramount version of the novel which will be shown at the Dicke Theatre, Saturday, Sept. 28, probably will be in the nature of a revelation.

Miss Clark expressed her delight at being afforded the opportunity to play the parts of Eva and Topsy.

By the employment of multiple exposure photography, both Eva and Topsy are enabled to appear in the same scene and it is in these scenes that Miss Clark, who is said to be the "Sweetest girl in motion pictures" displays her versatility with the best results.

HAD BEGINNING IN ROMANCE

Pretty Legendary Story Concerning Tea That Dates Some 2,000 Years Before Christ.

The Chinese claim to be the first users of tea as a drink, and how it originated is told in a pretty little legend that dates back 2,000 years before the coming of Christ.

A daughter of a then reigning sovereign fell in love with a young nobleman, whose inferior birth excluded him from marrying her. They managed to exchange glances, and he occasionally gathered a few blossoms and had them conveyed to her.

One day in the palace garden the lovers met, and the young man endeavored to give her a few flowers; but so keen was the watchfulness of her attendants that all she could grasp was a little twig with green leaves.

On reaching her room she put the twig in water, and toward evening she drank the water in which the twig had been kept. So agreeable was the taste that she even ate the leaves and the stalks. Every day afterward she had bunches of the tea tree brought to her, which she treated in the same way.

Imitation being the sincerest form of flattery, the ladies of the court tried the experiment, and with such pleasing results that the custom spread throughout the kingdom—and the great Chinese tea industry became one of the greatest businesses in the world.

MONASTERIES HIGH IN AIR

Greek Religious Buildings Constructed in the Fourteenth Century, Are Difficult of Access.

Perched lightly on the dizzy summits of the cliffs of Meteora are the monasteries of the air. They are simple buildings, these old Greek monasteries, austere and unadorned, and if they are not literally resting on air certainly they are as far as is practicable from the earth and its influences.

To reach the monasteries it seems as if an airplane would be needed, for they are built each on a separate rock several hundred feet high. The cliff sides rise in perpendicular steepness, which would baffle the most daring of mountain climbers. Only when the cliffs are nearly approached can the tiny ladders and ropes which bind the peaks to the valley be seen. The old monasteries were built, they tell us, in the fourteenth century, yet no substitute for the medieval method of ascent has ever been made. Convenience and comfort are not sought by the monks, and tourists like the novelty of climbing the frail swinging ladder or of being hauled up in a jolting cage propelled by a rope.

Some of the seven monasteries may not be visited by the public; the halls and altars of the others are open to the inspection of those who will risk their necks for the privilege of the sight. Once, the monks say, there were over twenty of these monasteries among the clouds, but the fate of all but the seven is hidden in mystery and their very existence is doubtful.—Chicago Daily News.

EXHIBITS ARE MADE LIFELIKE

Mounting of Natural History Objects in Their Natural Surroundings

Add to Their Interest.

In the development of the modern museum three stages have been recognized—that of the collection of objects for record, that of supplying materials for research and that of applying the collections to public education. The educational idea is now being developed by instructive display arrangement, loan exhibits for public and private schools and special lectures. The most notable feature is the mounting of natural history objects in the midst of their native surroundings, and much attention is being given at large museums—such as the American Museum of Natural History of New York—to grouping animals in their natural environment of shrubs, trees, flowers, rocks and other objects. In the new exhibition halls of the museum of the California Academy of Sciences, the case for a large mammal or bird habitat group is 25 feet long, 12 deep and 18 high, with a plate glass front 15 feet long and 10 high. Each of the two halves—one devoted entirely to California mammals and the other to California birds—is 150 feet long by 90 wide and 11 of the large cases have been placed in the mammal hall with six in the bird hall. Skylight illumination gives greater brightness in the cases than outside, preventing troublesome reflection from the glass. As a representative group may be taken that of the San Joaquin valley elk, a species of deer now preserved in a few reservations, and this is shown by several individuals standing or crouching in the grass near tree-bordered water, with low hills in the distance, the painted background seeming a continuation of the real scenery.

Water and Air.

Water in contact with the air absorbs its carbonic acid in a decidedly practical degree. In densely populated districts this is of considerable importance. The difference is perceptible to the sense after a long drought, as the common expression "refreshing showers" indicates.
