"LESS THAN KIN"

Paramount Actor Plays Two Roles In Unusually Attractive Story By Alice Duer Miller

Romance, fun, mystery, and the lure of a Central American Revolution are happily mingled in "Less than Kin," the new Paramount picture at the Dicke Theatre October 5. The ever popular Wallace Reid is starred, with Ann Little as his leading woman and both were well received. The screen version was written by Marion Fairfax from the famous novel by Alice Duer Miller.

All of you who love fascinating stories of soldiers of fortune—and that includes everybody—will like this colorful new picture. Wallace Reid as the dare-devil Lewis Vickers, who gets into bushels of trouble in both the United States and Central America and then gets out of it through his own nerve and resource.

Vickers first of all jumps to South America when he is accused of the murder of a man whom he killed while defending the man's wife. In Central America he amuses himself by drilling the motley comic opera army and in planning a revolution with some Spanish friends. Another man, Robert Lee, a ne'er-do-well young American, who is also living in Central America, dies, and his dying request is that Vickers write to a plan of returning to New York, that of substituting himself for Lee, whom he resembles. The subterfuge succeeds and Vickers goes to New York, only to find that he has let himself in for several bushels of trouble in assuming another man's past. He also meets a pretty girl, Lee's adopted cousin, but in the end he conquers the trouble and wins the girl. At Dicke Theatre, Saturday Oct. 5th.

Waste of Human Material.

Any man who has been in the world forty-five years or more should be a valuable employee. For a man to be shelved at forty-five is wrong, very wrong. For a man to lose confidence in himself because he is forty-five or thereabouts is absurd.

The man who has been in the world forty-five years has had a vast amount of experience and has had the opportunity to observe much that could be turned to good account. The trouble with us is that we do not know where to take our goods to market, or at least we do not know the best market in which to dispose of our goods. There is a great waste of human material because of its misplacement. We give more attention to the salesmanship problem in relation to goods than to the infinitely more important subject of human material.—New York Mail.

The Day's Worst Pun.

Time for Kindness.

There is no day so short nor so full that it does not give a chance to do a kindness.

AMERICAN WOMEN CALLED INTO COUNTRY'S SERVICE

Must Conserve Every Resource, Save Labor and Money to Make Fourth Liberty Loan Success.

By MRS. ANTOINETTE FUNK, Vice Chairman Woman's National Liberty Loan Committee.

This is a war that belongs to women. It is not being waged for conquest, nor for glory, nor for any empty rite, nor for material gain. It is a war for humanity, and wherever men, women and children are concerned it is woman's business.

In this great world crisis that is now upon us the president of the United States has called American women into the service of the world. Our allies remain unconquered because of the devotion, heroism and sacrifice of their women. We, too, shall prove invincible with the complete consecration of our womanhood.

When Secretary McAdoo called the women of America to their part in financing the world, he reminded them that while battles were won by men, wars were won by money, and that money could only be raised with the aid of the nation's women.

Women do not often handle large sums of money, but a giant army of them hold a large per cent of the fifty and the hundreds of the last Liberty loan. Those with small savings, too small to invest in high class securities are purchasing the finest securities under the sun in the market of the world.

Money alone will not win the war. For, if all the gold in the world were placed in a shining heap, it would be useless unless converted into terms of labor.

Labor means everything that we must use in the war—food, clothing, munitions, ships, houses, railroads, all the vital elements that make up the everyday life of individuals and of the nation.

Women must conserve labor as she conserves food. No woman has a right to anything to wear or to eat, to look at or to listen to, that she can possibly do without. All of these take labor to produce and detract from the necessities of war.

When the government has reached out its hand and laid it on the lives of its men nothing else matters. When our men have been asked to give all—life itself if need be—nothing that we can do or suffer really matters.

What do the graces of life matter when our plowshares are beaten into swords? What does the quality of food or the kind of clothing matter when men and women must ask themselves, "Is my boy hungry?" "Is he frozen?" We can give nothing that has not already been given by the youth that has marched out of our homes.

Liberty bonds are as good as coin of the realm, but if they were not and America needed the money, the women of the nation would frame those bonds and hand them down to their children's children as certificates of loyalty.

Differences in Coast Line.

The line of the Atlantic coast is largely of mud and sand, and has very little elevation. On the other hand, the Pacific coast line of Washington, Oregon and California is almost entirely rocky and precipitous. While the Atlantic and Gulf coasts are dotted with numerous harbors where ships may seek safety in time of storm, very different conditions exist on the Pacific, where there are few harbors, and these at long intervals.

SEVEN WAR WORK RELIEF AGENCIES JOIN IN DRIVE

Recognized Great Organizations Representing All Creeds and Elements Welded Into One.

$170,500,000 IS THE GOAL

Plan of War Department to Avoid Waste of Energy and Duplication of Effort Enthusiastically Adopted and Unity is Achieved.

WHAT GENERAL PERSHING NEEDS

"Give me nine men who have a hut and I will have a more effective fighting force than if I had ten men without it."

—General Pershing.

On November 11 the American people will start a one week's drive to raise the largest amount of money ever given outright by any people in the history of the world.

The drive will be a new thing under the sun. For the first time Protestants, Catholics and Jews, forgetting all their differences, will line up shoulder to shoulder, welding their individual organizations together in their common devotion to the boys in the cantonments and over there. This amalgamation of the seven great agencies engaged in war work is one of the fine developments which have been brought about by the war and under the wise guidance of President Wilson.

The seven organizations which together will make this united appeal are the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., National Catholic War Council and N. C. of the Jewish Welfare Board, the War Camp Community Service, the American Library Association and the Salvation Army. Each of them will need funds this Fall; each had planned a separate campaign for support. Now, acting on the suggestion of the President's letter of September 5, the seven campaigns will be rolled into one. The American people will be spared the burden of seven separate appeals, and the nation will have an opportunity to demonstrate splendidly that men and women of all creeds at home can work together, as men of all creeds over there are fighting and dying together.

Dr. John R. Mott, whom President Wilson has spoken of as one of the ablest and most useful men of his generation, has been selected Director General of the drive. It is interesting to note that Dr. Mott's name was placed in nomination by John G. Agar of the National Catholic War Council and seconded by Mortimer L. Schiff of the Jewish Welfare Board. The general committee having the campaign in charge contains such well known names as Raymond B. Fossick, Chairman of the Commission on Training Camp Activities; George W. Perkins, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the U. S. Steel Corporation; James F. Phelan of Hornblower and Weeks; Honorable Myron T. Herrick, former ambassador to France; Cleveland H. Dodge, George Gordon Battle, Mrs. Henry P. Davison and Frank A. Vanderbilt, president of the National City Bank.

In every city, county and town the campaign will be in charge of the biggest men of the community.

Together these seven organizations represent a work that is staggering in its proportions. They have more than 15,000 uniformed workers, standing shoulder to shoulder with the boys every step of the way from home to the front line trenches. They operate more than 3,600 buildings and ship 500 tons of supplies to the boys in France every week. Fifteen miles of film set sail for the other side each week under their direction, and the regular weekly attendance of soldiers and sailors at their motion picture shows is more than 2,500,000. The Bibles furnished to the boys since the war broke out would, if piled one on another, make a pile more than twenty miles high.

"Morale," said Napoleon, "is as other factors in war as three to one." By which he meant that one man who is kept contented and happy is better than three men who are discouraged and homesick. It is the business of these seven great agencies to help maintain morale. They are keeping up the fine fighting edge of our boys, and by their ministrations, helping to put added power into our army and navy and so hasten the hour of victory when they will bring our boys home again.

It is predicted by national leaders that this great victory drive will "go over the top" in a larger way than any campaign that has preceded it.

ON BASIS OF COMPROMISE

Couple's Religious Differences, Which Caused Trouble Once a Year, Settled in Peculiar Manner.

Compromise where political and religious antagonisms are concerned is evidently possible in Belfast, according to the testimony of a recent visitor to that town. One day she had occasion to call at a house where a woman of the Roman Catholic faith had married a Protestant husband. On one side of the mantel-shelf was a bust of the pope, on the other a bust of William of Orange. "I suppose you find it very difficult to agree at times?" Inquired the visitor. "No," was the ready reply; "we only differ once a year, on the Boyne anniversary, when my husband comes home drunk and smashes my bust of the pope." "Then I suppose you return the compliment by smushing his William of Orange?" "Not at all. I put it in pawn and buy another bust of the pope with the money," was the unexpected answer.—Manchester (Eng.) Guardian.

Sleep Should Be Undisturbed.

People are beginning to realize that sound sleep isn't obtainable in a bed that rattles or squeaks or that shocks the nerves into semi-wakefulness by unusual slippings of the springs or unexpected creakings. The advent of the separate bed and the banishing of the double bed into the limbo of warming pans and nightgowns is a distinct advance from the standpoint of hygiene, sanitation and more rational sleeping habits. When separate beds, or, better still, separate sleeping chambers, are in universal use, men and women, especially nervous men and women, and delicate children, will get a good deal more sleep than they do at present; they'll derive more benefit from the sleep they do get. All this will make it easier for them to do with considerably less sleep than they now require.
