FORMER LOCAL PASTOR DIED LAST SATURDAY

As his wife was lowered into the grave at Forest Home Saturday afternoon, the Rev. A. W. Strickfaden closed his eyes and surrendered. When his children, Alma. Nelta and Wellington, entered the family home at 2615 Monticello Avenue, Chicago, toward evening a nurse raised her finger for quiet. He was unconscious. Twenty minutes later he died.

He had been ill ever since an attack of influenza last October. Worn out by constance attnedance upon him, his wife Sophia died of heart disease Thursday.

Forty-three years a minister of the United Evangelical Church, Mr. Strickfaden retired four years ago. Funeral services were held at 10 o' clock a. m., Tuesday, at the United Evangelical Church, Kimball and Medill Avenues.

Rev. Strickfaden in 1867 was pastor of the Evangelical Church on Maple Avenue here. He married Lena Gerwig sister of Fred Gerwig and Mrs. Emma Gress, while serving here and was well known to the older residents. His first wife died fifteen years ago and in 1908 he married Miss Sophia Graff, also of Downers Grove. He was buried at the side of his first wife at his old home. Groveland, Ill., on Tuesday.

CIVIL SERVICE WORKING WITH VOCATIONAL BOARD

Washington, June 30, 1919. United States soldiers, sailors, and marine who are injured in the service of their country are receiving special consideration at the hands of the United States Civil Service Commission and the Federal Board for Vocational Education, working in cooperation.

When the Civil Service Commission receives an application for examination from a discharged Yank whose physical condition is such that he would not ordinarily be accepted, his Mothers are unheard of with the army case is referred to the Federal Board for Vocational Education. The Lederal Board turns the matter over to a field officer who promptly goes out after the man and offers him the secwices of the Board's organization for special training to fit him for the work for which he has applied or for nome ster employment if it does ad seem practicable to train him for the work for which he made application to the Civil Service Commission. Hundreds of such cases have been referred to the Federal Board by the Civil Service Commission.

Under a recent amendment of the Civil Service Rules, made on the recommendation of the Civil Service Then America entered the war Commission, the Conn sion may waive the established physical requirements in favor of a first ed and honorably discharged soldier, sailor or marine upon the certification of the Federal Board for Vocational Educa- whether he was in the army or not tion that he has been especially but I was sure by were because well. trained for and has passed a practi- because he is an tenerican." GOLDEN RULE HAS PLACE IN TRADE

Has Been Found to Be Good Business Policy Both for Buyer and Seller.

OBLIGATION NOT ONE-SIDED

Consumer Gains As Much By Being Fair With Merchant As Latter Does By Being Square and Honest.

(Copyright.)

Some cynical persons have remarked that the Golden Rule has no place in business. They have taken the posttion that instead of doing unto others as you would have them do unto you the only safe and same plan is to do others before they have a chance to

Fortunately for business and for the world at large, however, these persons are few and far between. The great majority of people are honest,

It has been proven repeatedly that even in husiness it pays to practice the Golden Rule, just as it has been proven repeatedly that "honesty is the best policy." It not only makes a man feel better down in his heart when he employs the principle of the Golden Rule, but he finds that it is good business. This applies not only to the man who stands behind the counter and gives ! full bound of sugar to the man who asks for a pound, but also to the man who stands on the other side of the counter and pays his money for the pound of sugar.

Does Consumer Do His Part? The consumer expects the merchant to be honest and square and give him his money's worth for every penny that he spends with him, but how often does the consumer stop and ask himself the question, "Am I being as fair and bonest with the merchant as he is being with me?" The consumer not only expects the merchant to give him honest weight and full measure at the lowest possible price, but he expects a world of other things at the same time. Nine times out of ten he expects the merchant to give him credit, and nine times out of ten the merchani does it. Many times he expects the merchant to "carry" him for three or four months before he pays for what he buys, and as many times the merchant does it. He expects the merchant to pay for advertising space is the church program which he is get ting up, and the merchant does it. He lives liberally when he is raising fund for the benefit of the town band and the merchant does it.

He expects the merchant to provide the bonus which is to be paid to obtain a new factory which will benefit the working man, the clerk and everybody else in the town, and the merchant does it. He expects the merchant to "come across" with a donation to help the poor family which otherwise would become a charge upon the common funds of the community and the merchant does.

Another Side to Picture.

Now, look on the other side of the picture. Mr. Consumer decides that he needs a new suit of clothes, or Mrs. Consumer decides that she wants a new kitchen range, or some of the little Consumers express a desire for a train of cars or a bobsled. Mr. Consomer picks up the big mall-order catalogue which the mail-order house has printed with his money or that of others like him, and he looks it over until he finds a picture that strikes his eye. It's a picture of a "nifty" looking suit of clothes. Of course, be can't feel the picture to see whether the cloth is as good as it looks; he can't look the mail-order man in the eye and ask him whether he will guarantee it to wear for at least a month or six weeks; he can't tell the mail-order man that he will drop in the first of the month and settle for it; he can't tell the mail-order man that he would like to have a little of his business or chance to do a little carpenter work or painting or plumbing work for him, as long as he is buying his goods from him, for the mail-order man hasn't any business or any work to give him. But goes down to the postoffice, buys a

After a week or ten days, or possibly two weeks, the suit arrives. It may may be of poor quality. The chances

Found Golden Rule Pays.

Mr. Consumer found that it pays to remember the Golden Rule in business. If he had done unto the merchant as he would like the merchant to do unto him, he would have got more for his money and he would have aided in making it possible for the merchant to help him and his town when they needed help.

Golden Rule is not for use only on Sundays, but that it is value on every day of the week be nothing like the picture. The cloth are that it doesn't fit at all. But there is nothing for Mr. Consumer to do but put the suit on and wear it. He can't get his money back. He might send the suit back and the mail-order man might send another in its place. but the chances are that it wouldn't be any better than the first and Mr. Consumer would only be out the additional express charges.

The world has discovered that the
