CAMP BLACK HAWK CLOSES—GREAT SUCCESS

The County Y. M. C. A. boys' camp on the Rock river which closed on Saturday the 20th, was voted by all the boys a great success.
Almost without exception the boys agreed to meet each other next year at Camp Black Hawk, proving their loyalty to this new camp for the boys of northern Illinois, and their acceptance of its ideals.
There were 62 boys from Lee, Mc Henry and Du Page counties enrolled during the eight days of camp. The camp sits on a high bluff overlooking the Rock river, and its regular layout of sleeping-tents, administration tent, dining tent and kitchen all appealed to the boys, as well as the visitors who came from home.
The feature of the camp life was the series of tests given for the Honor Emblem, which was a black hawk on a red triangle with red letters "C. B." on a black square, the camp colors being red and black. This attractive insignia was awarded to 25 boys who received 25 credits in each of the series of tests, intellectual, physical, religious and service. Among twenty tests to choose from were elementary first aid, reporting on "keeping fit" learning 10 games, improvement in swimming, daily Bible class, learning of books of new testament, writing letters home, camp duties and camp spirit.
The awarding of this Honor Emblem to a boy designated him as symmetrically developed. The Emblem was awarded to the following boys from Du Page County: Holt Steck, Don Cutter, John Losch, and William Pierce.
Other features of the camp were the hike down the river, five miles to the great statue of Chief Blackhawk, where a trek meet, baseball and volleyball matches were played, and the visit by auto to Camp "Pinoka," evening visit to Governor Lowden's estate below Oregon. The latter trip was arranged thru a number of Oregon's business men who furnished the autos.
The closing banquet on Thursday evening was addressed by Dr. A. Allen Reed, Ph. D., of Oregon, and Mr. Otis B. Read, State Secretary for County Work of the Y. M. C. A.

About fifteen boys learned to swim others had training in life saving, the handling of boats and surveying and map drawing. A competition is under way among some of the boys for the preparation of a drawing of the camp site, for the camp folder next year.

"A SPORTING CHANCE"

At Dicke Theatre Tuesday, Sept 9. Carey Brent's impulses led her into many difficulties and when she sympathetically entrusts six fighting caddies to the care of her chauffeur, he throws up his job, so, of necessity Carey herself drives her father, Peter Brent, to the station, he being in a hurry to catch a train.
On the way home a tire is punctured as the result of glass carelessly thrown on the road. While Carey is preparing to change tires, a disreputable man accosts her, and in him she thinks she recognizes Harry the Duke, an escaped convict of whom she has read in the papers. He changes the tire for her and Carey, through an impulse to reform him, offers him a position as chauffeur. The man, Paul Sayre, accepts, and Carey takes him home with her.
After showing Paul his quarters over the garage, Carey enters the house and finds her stepmother, Pamela Brent, entertaining Ralph Seward, a society idler. Carey dislikes Seward. Carey takes Pamela out to see the new chauffeur, Seward following. Paul, resenting Seward's insinuating remark, hits him with the garage door and the latter leaves angrily. Pamela troubled, runs after him and he tells her he will come again, when Carey is not around to bother them. Carey watches them puzzled, wondering what is between the two.
One day Carey accidentally overhears a telephone conversation between Pamela and Seward and learns that he has some innocent love letters written by Pamela to a former sweetheart of hers. He has been blackmailing Pamela—and now he demands Carey as the prize. Pamela is frantic, but refuses.
Paul, in the next booth to that of Seward's, also overhears the conversation and his dislike for Seward increases. He leaves before the conversation is over.
Carey impulsively determines to help Pamela and drives to Seward's apartment. On the way, she sees a bulletin stating that Harry the Duke has been recaptured. She is disturbed but is in too great a hurry to think much about it. Seward is not at home but Carey persuades the telephone boy to admit her to the apartment where she starts searching for the letters. She is interrupted by Seward's entrance. He thinks he has Carey in a trap and tells her she will agree to marry him before she leaves. Carey angrily defies him but she realizes that her impulses have gotten her into real trouble this time. She is in despair when Paul walks out from the next room and saves her from Seward. Paul cleverly announces that he has found the letters, and Seward, anxious and fearful, betrays exactly what Paul wants, and he holds Seward while Carey gets Pamela's letters and those of other victims.
Not until Carey arrives home does she realize that Paul, alias Harry the Duke, was supposed to have been recaptured. He can deceive her no longer and confesses that he is only a hum drum broker and had been the victim of the real Harry. Carey wants to know why he didn't tell her at first—and he explains that he yielded to an impulse to be near her as a romantic burglar-chauffeur. Carey looks at him lovingly as she says, "You know, Dad comes here tomorrow—and we'll have a frightful lot of explaining to do!"

KEEP YOUR EYE OPEN FOR A NEW POTATO DISEASE

New and dangerous potato disease known as potato wart made its appearance in the United States and the government is very anxious to know if it exists in this county. Potato wart can be readily recognized. Wartlike growths appear on the surface of the potatoes, usually at the eyes. These are light brown when young, becoming black when older and are rough and spongy in texture. The wart may become quite large and in case of bad infection the whole potato is transformed into a rough spongy mass.
The disease has been reported from only one state in the Union, that being Pennsylvania and vigorous measures are being taken to stamp it out there.
In an effort to determine whether the disease has gained footing in other centers, men are being sent out to make a thorough survey of every state. Mr. F. E. Beghtel who is working in Illinois is now in this county studying the situation here.

Man, Proud Man!

Nothing shows the greed, egotism and stupidity of man more than when for man kills not only his own species as animals rarely do, but all other species.—Exchange.
