LEGAL NOTICES

TO THE PATRONS OF WESTERN UNITED GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY:

Western United Gas and Electric Company hereby gives notice to the public that it has filed with the Public Utilities Commission of Illinois a petition for a change of rates for gas for light, heat and power purposes in all municipalities and communities in the counties of McHenry, Kane, De Kalb. Du Page, Cook, Kendall and Will in the State of Illinois, and that said change of rate involves an increase of thirty cents (30c) per housand cubic feet of gas over and above the present rates charged by it.

A copy of the proposed schedule may be inspected by any interested party at any of the offices of this company in any of the communities served by it in the counties hereinabove set forth where offices are maintained.

All parties interested in this proceeding may obtain information as to the time and place of hearing upon this matter, by addressing the Secretary of the Public Utilities Commission at Springfield, Illinois.

GREATER THAN FAME

Will be shown at the Dicke Theatre Thursday, March 11th.

Margaret Brooke, a charming girl, rossesses a marvelous voice. She lives in a little country town with her two aunts who love her deeply.

Following the advice of the old organist of the church, she goes New York to study for a career. order to pad out her scanty allowance of $10.00 a week, she takes a position as waitress in a tea room. Here she is seen by Philip Waring, a wealthy New York clubman. She ignores his attempts to win her acquaintance.

Her professor tells her he knows a wealthy woman who will help her, It developes that she is Mrs. Waring. Mrs. Waring is charmed by Margaret and gives a dinner so that she may meet a number of successful peo ple; people, who, as she points out, have "lived life to the fullest" in or der to attain success. Margaret is made unhappy by this unsophisticated philosophy and decides to leave the Waring home. She leaves a note explaining her reason. Mr. Waring follows and succeeds in winning her confidence. She tells her entire story and he tells her he knows a perfect little apartment that can be rented cheaply.

She secures it and Waring becomes daily visitor. So. too, does Jack Martin, in whom she is interested. During one of his visits Waring, using his own door key, enters. Martin observes this and horrified at what he believes it to imply, leaves in disgust. Margaret is indignant at what Waring has done. He then attempts to take her in his arms. She repulses him, packs her few possessions and leaves.

When she appeals to Saxer, a famus impressario, he repeats Mrs. War ing's words-that one must "live life Downers Grove to the fullest" in order to attain ar tistic success. She denounces men in general and him in particular.

And soon we find Margaret at the neighth of a triumphant career. Aid ed by Saxer, she has made a magnificent success in the opera that Jack has written for her. Everyone ac Phone 134-W claims her the supreme star of the operatic season.

> Then, in a very beautiful scene, she sets all minds at rest by introducing them to her husband-Jack Martin; the man she had married when she found that success could best be won

She was just about to return to the house when the figure of a small boy coming up the road, holding a small flag and whistling "Yankee Doodle," attracted her attention. As he came nearer she saw that he belonged to the new family only recently moved into the big house on the bill. The strong feeling of loneliness and her desire for human companionship caused her to smile and say:

"Hello, laddie! What's your name?" "Richard Winthrop Hetherington, Jr.," was the response.

"Where have you been, Richard, with your flag?"
