A dozen men of the Congregational church Men's Club met at the Hotel LaSalle on Monday and had luncheon together. A number of affairs at the church were taken up and plans for boosting them were made. Everyone present had such an enjoyable time that it was unanimously agreed to have such a luncheon every month, and the date for the next one was set for May 24th at the same place. Every man interested in making the Congregational church of more worth or value to the community is most cordially invited to meet with us next time.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gardiner passed away Monday evening.

The children of the grades are very much interested in their flag contest. Mr. Rood, our local anti-saloon league man offers a fine large flag to that room whose teacher gets the most ballots at the lecture tonight at the Methodist church. Only adults however, can vote. The ballot has a line in which the teacher's name is to be written, and the ballot is then signed and presented at the door in person. The vote does not count unless the voter attends the lecture. There will be some blank ballots at the door for the use of those who have not already been solicited by the children to vote for their teacher. So, boys and girls, if you did not get as many ballots as you wanted to represent your room, get as many of the older folks to go as you can anyway, and tell them whom you want them to vote for.
