"OLD FASHIONED WINTER IS MYTH"

—WEATHER MAN

World's Weather Hasn't Changed in 300 Years According to U. S. Official Forecaster.

The weather of the world has not changed any in the last 300 years in the mean, says George S. Bliss, official forecaster of the United States weather bureau here, men though it has been at times.

Mr. Bliss gave a jolt to the old and dearly-cherished household phrase, old-fashioned winter. Such a winter, according to Mr. Bliss, simply doesn't exist, because the winters of long ago were no more severe than the winters of the present time.

"People are apt to estimate old time winters by one or two notable storms," said Mr. Bliss. "But in the main they were no more severe than they are today. Then again people a few years ago did not have the comforts that they have today, and consequently their winters only seemed more severe."

"Without modern houses and steam and hot water heat, and with probably only one or two rooms heatable at a time, cold weather seemed more rigorous than it is now."

"Of course there have been changes in the weather from time to time. One summer may be intensely hot, another very comfortable, another winter may be severe and the next mild. We have heavier snowfalls one time, another high winds, greater rainfalls and the like but that does not alter the fact that the average has remained about the same. This is true of this city, and statistics show that the same holds good for other parts of the country."

"Such changes as there are, are due to a shifting of atmospheric pressure from one place to another, a moving about of permanent high and low areas. But these merely fluctuate, and at no time have shown a trend in any direction."

We really should have saved this until a cold snap next winter when the "old timers" begin telling of the storms of their youth.

TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO IN THE REPORTER

From the issue of September 15, 1898.

A telegram was received last Saturday by W. H. Edwards announcing the death of his son, Harry Edwards, of Co. I, 7th California Infantry, of typhoid fever at the general hospital at the U. S. Government Post Presidio, California. The body is expected to arrive here on the Denver Limited tomorrow afternoon and funeral services will be held from the home Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Susan A. Roberts left today for a two weeks' visit in Boston, Mass. Mrs. O. R. Brown of Tongaloo, Miss. is here on an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Porter.

Fire destroyed a cottage on North Highland avenue Saturday night which was the property of John Graves. The entire building and contents was a total loss as the cottage was too far from the fire plug for the hose companies to get any action.

With the return of Fred Towsley of the Naval Reserves Friday, and Will R. Wells and Dave Colville of the First Illinois Infantry Saturday, all the Downers Grove boys who served during the war are home. Towsley served on the auxiliary cruiser Yale, Wells and Colville saw service at Santiago.

The latter two are home on sixty days furlough. Ben Weatherbee of the First Infantry who came home sick two weeks ago is able to be out again.

Capt. T. S. Rogers, M. E. Stanger, Chris Warkentine, L. P. and James Sucher, and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Miller who attended the national encampment of the G. A. R. at Cincinnati, returned this week.

Stippling by Clock Work. The stippling effect which many artists make use of in the working up of their pictures, especially those intended for reproduction, has been heretofore secured by laboriously going over the picture by hand, but the operation has been greatly simplified recently by the English invention of a stippling pen which is operated by a clock work motor. The work is done evenly and quickly.
