WORKED THIRTY-ONE HOURS ON ELECTION BOARD

Frank Huling in Los Angeles Tells of Long Shift to Tabulate Vote Nov. 2nd.

Frank Huling, in a letter to his sister, Mrs. F. J. Littleford, tells of a long shift which the election board on which he served worked at the last election.

Mr. Huling, a former resident of Downers Grove, was a judge in his precinct at the presidential election November 2nd. The polls opened at 5:45 in the morning and closed at 5:00 p. m. Immediately after the last voter had cast his ballot, the count started and that bunch of election officials worked until 12:30 the next day tabulating the returns.

Beside the big ballot there were twenty-one amendments to the State Constitution and fifteen amendments to the city charter to be voted on. Local election officials who worked until two in the morning were not so bad off as they thought, with the above story in view.

THAT STOPPED THEM

Bill says: Speaking of all these automobile accidents, we used to have a curve near Homeburg that was a regular sonuvagun. Every summer we'd have a succession of smash-ups there. Automobileists would hit it at about 60 miles an hour and then wonder why they woke up in the hospital.

It began to get on our nerves. We put up signs—but they sped by them. Finally one enterprising citizen did a lot to cure 'em. He erected a sign right on the curve where they could see it a mile off—all shrouded in black and decorated with palms reading "B. V. Jones, Undertaker. First Class Funerals. Special Rates to Automobileists."
