Do you always tell the truth? Sure about it? See the trouble one man got into when he bet $10,000

One of the observant men has noticed what school children thoughtlessly throw orange peelings and banana skins on the sidewalks. He says "the children do not mean to do these things but they forget that it may mean a bad fall for some old man or lady, and I know if you call the matter to their attention, that they will not do it any more." So there you are kids, now we're sure that you are all good little children and that you will not do these thoughtless things again.

A PROCLAMATION

Now, therefore, I, Len Small, Governor of Illinois, for the purpose of promoting the general health and welfare of the people of the State, do hereby designate and proclaim the week beginning on Sunday, April 17, 1921, to be observed as Health Promotion Week; and I urge upon our people, and particularly upon the public schools and civic bodies of the State, a wholehearted participation in the observance of this week to the end that the results to be obtained may be of lasting benefit; and, further, I designate the State Department of Public Health as the agency to outline a suitable program for health promotion, and I suggest that our citizens communicate freely with the Director of Public Health in order that the greatest possible benefit may accrue from the proper observance of these seven days of Health Promotion Week.

Given under my hand and the great Seal of State at the Capitol in Springfield, this Twenty-first
