BEBE DANIELS

DUCKS AND DRAKES

BY ELMER HARRIS DIRECTED BY MAJOR MAURICE CAMPBELL

HELLO!

"Who Am I?"

"Oh, just a lonesome little girl who wants somebody to talk to her." That's the message reckless Teddy sent tingling over the telephone wire, without knowing anything about the man at the other end of the line except that he had a pleasant voice and knew how to "jolly."

It was risky, but naughty Teddy adored doing dare-devil things,— or did until her fiance and his friends cured her of the habit.

Here is a rollicking comedy with Bebe Daniels at her best.

You will be thrilled by the submarine scenes of this picture, by the near tragedy caused by jealousy, by the spectacular fire of the villain's own making in which he all but loses his life, and also by the heroic rescue of her lover by the girl. This is a story of both laughter and tears and romance.
