Georges Carpentier, whose picture, "The Wonder Man," is being successfully shown a second time in many of America's leading theatres.

Eva Novak, who has been appearing in Universal pictures, is now under the Paramount banner. She plays the leading feminine part in support of Wm. S. Hart in "The Testing Block." Eva is a sister to Jane Novak, who has appeared in previous Hart pictures.

Mr. George Arliss, whose picture, "The Devil," is one of the photographic triumphs of the year, is one of the greatest actors of the speaking stage. Playgoers mention him in the same breath with such artists as Maud Adams, David Warfield, Mrs. Fiske and the Barrymores. Before attaining stardom many years ago he supported Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Blanche Bates and Mrs. Fiske. When he played "The Devil" on the speaking stage he created a furore, and ever since then his appearance in a new play is an event of moment in the theatrical world.

In "The Devil," Mr. Arliss has surrounded himself with an excellent cast including Sylvia Breamer, Lucy Cotton, Edmund Lowe, Roland Bottoley and Mrs. Arliss.

"The Affairs of Anatol," the great Paramount picture to be given its first public showing early in the fall, has been completed. The list of the stars appearing in this picture includes Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson, Elliot Dexter, Bebe Daniels, Monte Blue, Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts, Agnes Ayres, and Julia Faye.

Other all star combinations to appear in pictures now in the making are Dorothy Dalton, Mildred Harris and Conrad Nagel—Elsie Ferguson, Wallace Reid, Elliot Dexter and Montague Love. Continuation of the policy of using more than one famous star in a picture will depend, no doubt, on the reception these pictures are accorded by the public.
