Austria's Hat Industry.
Of all the industries of Austria, there are few which are dependent to such a small extent on the importation of raw materials as the hat industry. The hair of rabbits and hares which is used to such a great extent in certain lines, is produced almost entirely within Austrian frontiers.

Nests in the Dark.
Prairie-owls select the deserted burrows of the prairie-dogs; Chimney swifts construct their nests far down in dark sooty chimneys, says the American Forestry Magazine, while woodpeckers constitute other familiar examples of this, as do a vast host of other species of birds all over the world.

"Q" VICE PRESIDENT GIVES A WARNING OF COAL SHORTAGE

Says Railroad is Storing Coal in Anticipation of Threatened Shortage in Winter.

If what happened in recent years is a safe criterion by which to judge, said E. P. Bracken, Vice President of the Burlington Road, we are going to experience one of the greatest coal shortages in history, unless the public gets busy and buys coal—NOW! The almost total lack of coal buying at this time is most alarming, continued Mr. Bracken. Unless the public commences at once to buy and store coal, the ultimate result will be that when the first cold snap happens along unexpectedly, everybody will want coal in a hurry and many of them will not get it, because there will not be cars and engines enough to supply the demand.

The Burlington Railroad, concluded Mr. Bracken, is now building coal mountains at various coaling stations on its lines and is storing 330,000 or 8,250,000 bushels. The advantage of this is that the Burlington will thus be enabled to use its engines and coal cars exclusively for the handling of commercial coal this fall, when the demand is overwhelming and equipment scarce, and render 100% service to the public; the railroad can distribute the coal more economically during the summer season, because trains can be loaded to maximum capacity and transportation necessarily can be conducted more economically than after bad weather has set-in.
