DISAPPEARANCE OF FORD SEDAN IS A MYSTERY Bold, bad bandits here again made their appearance in the Grove and for the first time in the history of the village an auto has been stolen from its streets. Last Friday evening about seven o'clock a Ford sedan, the property of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Staats, was taken from in front of The Reporter office. The theft was a particularly bold one inasmuch as all the lights were burning in the office, throwing a stream of brightness across the street, and Mr. Staats, Sr., was working in the place at the time. Clueing up the stories of passers by about the time the machine disappeared gives us a connected story. There were two men and before starting away they had the colossal nerve to turn the car around in the street before driving it off. The loss was not discovered for more than an hour giving them plenty of time for a clean getaway. The Chicago Motor Club holds the insurance policy which is for as much coverage as can be obtained on a Ford. We have in type a review of a book written by Harry Jenkins which was crowded out. It will run next week.
