REV. NEWLAND WILL PREACH AT UNION MEETING

Meetings Will Probably be Extended Throughout the Month of August.

Last Sunday's Union Open Air meeting was another well attended affair and the message brought by the Rev. J. Alfred Nansen, pastor of First Evangelical church was one well worth going miles to hear. He just returned from attending a conference at Kansas City and was enthused with his subject.

Next Sunday's meeting will be addressed by the Rev. Gilbert H. Newland, pastor of the Methodist church and his subject will be "Five Rivers of Truth." Rev. Nansen will be in charge. This was to be the last of these meetings for the year but at a meeting of the Ministerial association next week it is thought that they will extend the meetings throughout the month of August. It is hoped that they will as Downers Grove people are enthusiastic over them and seem to enjoy and derive a great benefit from the meetings.

Speaking on the theme, "Great Discoveries," in the union meeting last Sunday evening, among other things Rev. Nansen said, "Our lives today are enriched by the great discoveries of those who have lived before us. Just as the infant advances from helplessness to power through the discovery of itself in relation to its environment, so the race is dependent for its advancement in civilization upon great discoveries which make men masters of the forces of nature and the spiritual laws making for amiable relationships among men."

"It is not many decades since the natives of southern Africa made discoveries which promoted them to the agricultural stage of civilization. An era of prosperity was thus ushered in upon most sections of the country but the Kimberly district was not prospering. With the passing years it seemed to be going backward. One after another the discouraged farmers were leaving their old homesteads to seek more promising localities in which to try their fortunes. Children still played before the doorsteps of the decadent shanties of those who remained behind. They were ragged and hungry and spent their time playing with ugly misshapen pebbles which littered the soil because their poverty stricken parents could not buy them toys. One day a stranger passing through the poverty stricken district, made the discovery that these ugly pebbles with which the ragged children played were diamonds in the rough. That discovery ushered in an era of prosperity which completely transformed the Kimberly district.

"Again and again the world has been thus enriched by the great discoveries made by travelers in the strange fields of life." Rev. Nansen then called attention to the great transformations in mode of living and laboring caused by discoveries which have made men masters of the forces of nature." He expressed his belief that man has not yet reached his limit of discovery saying, "We still go through life as those who travel in strange countries. Sometimes today we walk in rock strewn fields amidst acres of diamonds but know it not for to our eyes they appear to be ugly, misshapen pebbles and some of them are hidden at the heart of stones."

"While these discoveries which have made us masters of many of the forces of nature have given great impulse to the advancement of civilization there is another field in which discoveries have been made which have promoted civilization even more materially. These discoveries have made possible a higher type of life, both for the individual and for the social organism. Humanity cannot rise above the stage of infancy until it has discovered and learned to apply God's laws for the guidance of human conduct."

The speaker pointed out how men discovered principles for the direction of human conduct which make equality imperative and those discoveries sounded the death knell to human slavery. "Similar discoveries have exalted womanhood and brought equal suffrage. More recent discoveries have brought the liquor traffic into the paroxysms of its death agony. Men are building great business enterprises on the Golden Rule. Potentates are discovering meaning in the song the angels sang on the bleak hills of Judea so long ago. We must apply the principles of the old Book to the industrial situation of today before its problems can be solved."

Many illustrations were cited showing how and under what varied circumstances men have discovered new meaning in the old message.

In concluding his address the speaker said, "We still need men who can break away the rocks from the originals and bring forth fresh new translations in the language of our own day. We still need the light of critical research on the part of God's more scholarly men. We still need the added light of the faithful historian that by the help of telescopic study and microscopic examination we may continue to discover the principles which will guide us to the solu-

TORODE-DE HAAN

Wednesday evening, July 26, a pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Torode of Elmhurst, when their daughter, Vivian Rogers, became the bride of Mr. Paul DeHaan of Gary, Indiana.

The house was beautifully decorated with wild flowers of various colors, making a lovely background for the simple but impressive ceremony. The bride wore a becoming gown of white organdie over a yellow satin slip and carried a bouquet of exquisite sunburst roses. The veil of white tulle, which had been worn by a cousin in the Torode family forty years before, was caught by a single rose, giving a touch of added beauty to the pretty scene.

The Rev. Mr. J. Alfred Nansen of Downers Grove read the ceremony. Miss Gertrude Dixon of Chicago, played Lohengrin's wedding march.

Following the ceremony, a bountiful wedding dinner was served to the guests, after which the happy couple left for their new home at 413 Monroe street, Gary, Indiana.
