THOUSANDS OF RATS DESTROYED IN TEXAS

Rodent-Control Specialists Aid Local Authorities.

Counties Divided into Zones and Money Raised to Give to Men and Boys as Prizes for Killing Largest Number.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Six hundred and seventy thousand rats were killed in the extermination drives in Texas last year. County agents employed co-operatively by the United States Department of Agriculture, state agricultural colleges, and the counties promoted many of the campaigns with the help of members of local farm bureaus and chambers of commerce and under the general supervision of biological survey rodent control specialists.

Some counties were divided into zones and money was raised to be given as prizes to men, boys, and schools killing the largest number of rats. The county superintendent of schools and school teachers assisted particularly in stimulating the interest of the pupils.

The most rats were killed in Denton county. The boy having the greatest number to his credit killed 15,000 in six weeks. In Williamson county another boy killed 900 in two weeks.

It is estimated that the rats averaged about a half a pound each, making about 167 tons of rats killed during the campaign. It is also estimated that each rat, had it lived a year, would on an average have eaten or damaged property worth $1.00, making the results of the campaign worth approximately $670,000.

SECRETS OF COOKING BACON

To Fry Until Thoroughly Delicious and Crisp, Though Unburned, Is Not Difficult.

Frying bacon so that it is thoroughly delicious and crisp, though unburned, is not such a hard thing to accomplish as has sometimes been supposed. According to the office of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, it makes no difference whether the cooking is fast or slow, and to keep pouring off the fat as it tries out is more work than is really necessary for a perfectly good result.

Frying bacon so that it is crisp is chiefly a matter of getting the water and excess fat out of it. In order not to burn it, one should be very careful that neither the bacon nor the fat in the pan becomes overheated. Throughout the process the fat should remain a light brown color and should not be allowed to get dark brown. It is easier to cook bacon slowly than to cook it fast, because it is easier to keep the fat a uniform pale color when one takes plenty of time for the task.

Bacon to be crisp does not need to drain while it is cooking. It can even be fried in deep fat with excellent results. After it is cooked and before it is taken from the pan it should be thoroughly drained while still hot; then it should be served at once.

REMEDY AGAINST LAWN ANTS

Entomologists Recommend Drenching Nests With Boiling Water or Using Kerosene.

To get rid of lawn ants entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture suggest drenching the nests with boiling water or pouring in a small quantity of kerosene oil. Similar treatment may be applied to nests between or beneath paving stones. Spraying the lawn with kerosene emulsion or with very strong soap wash is also recommended. For large ant nests disulphid of carbon injected into the nest by means of an oil can or small syringe is recommended to kill the ants. The fumes of disulphid of carbon have a very disagreeable odor and are inflammable, but they are not injurious to higher animals in the open air.

FREE RANGE OF IMPORTANCE

Chicks Confined Continually in Brooder Do Not Secure Proper Amount of Exercise.

Healthy chicks are very active. Chicks that are confined in a brooder house continually are not apt to have sufficient exercise, which frequently gives rise to toe picking, feather pulling and other brooder evils. Free range gives them something to do and keeps them healthy.

Animal Mimicry.

Observers of nature are frequently struck by the singular resemblances of insects to leaves, dried sticks and so forth, and these likenesses are supposed to have grown out of the necessity of protection against or concealment from enemies. An interesting example of this kind of resemblance was recently cited by a government naturalist, who exhibited a spider found inhabiting some rocks near Cannes, on which were also fastened the cases of a species of moth. When at rest the spider exhibited almost precisely the same form and color as the moth cases surrounding it.

Eskimo Not Dainty Feeder.

The Eskimo is not particular about the cut of his meat. He eats everything physically possible of a reindeer or fish or polar bear (and what he does not eat he wears or makes into houses or tools). Particularly does he seem to relish the frozen stomach of the reindeer. This stomach, full of finely chewed reindeer moss, he freezes solid and stores away, according to Docx Marquis, until he is vitamin hungry, when a piece is sliced off, thawed out and eaten as a rare delicacy.

Koreans Refuse Hair-Cuts.

Koreans do not cut their hair or beard, believing that by so doing they would dishonor their parents. Any hair that may happen to fall out is saved, and with finger-nail parings, put in the coffin, so that a dead man or woman may go back to another earth intact.

Algebra's Original Meaning.

Algebra is an Italian word derived from the Arabic al-jabr, meaning the reunion of broken parts. It was in early use in the sense of bone-setting.

The social mingling mammals beat the savage animals in the struggle for existence. In the words of the text—"love beats hate."

In history is seen the struggle for self or struggle for others as seen in the reformation, the English, French and American revolutions, with the abolishing of slavery, or in other words the downfall of kings, priests, and slave holders show the power of the Shepherd idea above the wolf idea.

Philosophy is the history of thought and as Granville Jones said "your philosophy is your way of looking at life." There is no view of life to be compared with love. It is the greatest philosophy in the world.

"Art is the creation of man by which he seeks to disclose the beautiful in music, painting, poetry, sculpture, oratory, architecture. Goethe said "The first and last thing that is demanded of genius is love of truth. If any man will be an artist let him deny himself."

"Christianity or love is the code of Hammurabi in the code of Justinian and in the ethics of the ancient there are words for righteousness, justice but they had no meaning applied to the slave. The hanging gardens of Babylon were built by slaves whose average life was four years of toil. Into such a world Christ came to bind up the broken hearted, bring light to the blind, liberty to the captives. A lawyer asked Jesus "What must I do to inherit eternal life?" Jesus answered "by the story of the Good Samaritan."

"Selfishness destroys its very advocates. The Dead sea is dead because it keeps all it gets. Love, or stewardship of prayer, personality, possessions, is creative. The liberal soul shall be made fat. What the world needs today is a better brand of this spirit of the shepherd. I give my life for the sheep."
