Highway Dept. in Statement About Hard Road Cracks

Illinois Standard Design of Pavement Found Correct — Other States Copying

The State Highway Department, answering inquiries and criticisms in regard to cracks in state roads, has issued a statement of which the following is a part. "The longitudinal crack down the center of the road also has been criticized as a fault in the pavement. To some it would probably be a surprise to know that this crack is developed by a construction feature of the Illinois standard design. As longitudinal cracks inevitably occur in pavements regardless of precautions taken to prevent them, it then remains to the engineers to control the crack to the best advantage of the road. For this reason Illinois uses a metallic joint placed in the center of the pavement to force the longitudinal crack to appear directly down the middle of the road. Since this control joint has been in use the ragged unsightly crack down the pavement has disappeared and a straight joint has been obtained which, in addition to its many technical advantages, acts as a dividing line for two way traffic. "The only crack which is at all injurious and which should be repaired immediately is a corner crack which separates a small area of concrete from the pavement. There is not only possibility for a settlement of these small areas with a consequent forming of an uneven surface, but there is also the tendency for these areas to gradually work away from the rest of the pavement. The presence of a steel bar placed along each side of the pavement six inches from the edge does much to prevent the breaking off of corners and the result is that Illinois has had practically no failures of this nature since this design was adopted in 1921. "It is, therefore, quite evident that there is no cause for alarm at the appearance of cracks in state highways. The design of this year's pavements is identical with that used in 1921 and the same rigid inspection of materials and construction is present as in previous years. "Tests on the Bates Road which contained 63 different sections of pavements proved that the Illinois standard design of pavement was correct. That a number of other states have adopted this design as their own standard is excellent proof that the pavements of Illinois are of the strongest and most economical that can be built."

Crowded Out

We have a very interesting story of a program at the north side school the other day in type which, owing to lack of space, was crowded out at the last minute. It is worth while and will be published next week.

the Congregational church. Next Sunday's sermon theme will be: "The last Judgment." It is appointed unto men once to die, but thereafter the judgement. There is absolutely no chance for salvation after death. Once dead, the next step a man must take is to appear before the judgement seat of God. The Son of Man, Jesus Christ, will be the judge, and he will summon before his tribunal all nations, all people that have walked this earth since Creation. Then the final verdict will be spoken: Eternal damnation to the unbeliever, Eternal Life to the believer. Saturday evening, November 4. Congregational meeting at the home of Mr. George Baumbach. There will be important business to transact, and it is imperative that every member be present. Wednesday evening, November 8: Meeting of the young people at the home of the Schramms, Park avenue and Orchard. All young people are urged to attend.

Truth Stranger Than Fiction in Naperville Case

Shotgun Stolen in Missouri is Recovered at a Trap Shoot in Lincoln Park.

On September 17, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Scott of Naperville started on an auto trip with Garnet, Kansas, as their destination. As there was a promise of Prairie Chicken hunting, Mr. Scott took his shot gun, which was a genuine Belgium Francotte, in a sole leather leather case. Each morning Mr. Scott assured himself that his gun was safe, as the case seemed undisturbed. On unloading the car at Garnet, it was discovered that the gun had been taken from it. A letter written to each one of the garages brought the same reply—the owner felt sure that no one in his employ was dishonest. Two weeks later, Mr. Egermann, business partner of Mr. Scott, and a gun lover, attended a shooting match in Lincoln Park, Chicago, and to his surprise the man standing next in line was using the lost gun, and it was immediately recognized by Mr. Egermann. Inquiry brought out the fact that a young man, employed as oiler in the garage at Hannibal, Mo., had sent it to Chicago to a dealer of fine guns, and traded it for a Luger revolver, valued at $75.00. An affidavit was easily obtained as to the date of purchase, number of gun and description so that owner could prove property, which is now in Mr. Scott's possession and the young man is in jail in Hannibal awaiting trial. It seems almost unbelievable that this stolen article should be brought back to perhaps the only person in the world who would recognize it, when there are dealers of imported guns in every large city and it only proves again that "Truth is indeed Stranger Than Fiction."—Naperville Clarion.

The Best Way is the Gas Way

"Most people," says the Federal Government, "start the furnace fire too early in the Fall, overstroke it and force it for extreme heat too suddenly in very cold weather and burn it too late in the Spring."

When you use gas in one of the modern and highly efficient types of heaters, you are burning the ideal fuel.

You cannot "turn on" the furnace fire for a half hour or so to take the chill off the house on an Autumn day. Gas will do this for you, quickly, cleanly, economically, because you do not need heat for long periods of time, nor much of it. And your house will have that cheerful atmosphere that makes it home.

Use gas as supplemental heat and you will save many tons of coal and do your part in putting a stop to the smoke nuisance.
