correct home method. 7. Cold pack canning retains more vitamin C than the open kettle method. 8. Immunization is being well carried out in children but not in adults. More care is advised where adults are concerned. 9. Representatives from one workshop served proper food for lunch at their next Women's Institute meeting and explained why each food was necessary. 10. The same branch reported they will carry on a 2 minute interval at each meeting as a year round service of their knowledge from the workshop. They will use the true or false quiz which they received at that time as a contest at their next meeting.

Another branch reports posting drawn illustrations on their bulletin board of information gained at the workshop. The same branch plans on giving a paper on "Eat to Live". Another group hopes to hold panel discussions, assist in health clinics, hold weight control classes and stress proper vitamins at community meals.

Agriculture and Canadian Industries

Reporting on Agriculture and Canadian Industries the convener, Mrs. Dorothy Newhouse said that farm management is the key word in agriculture today and that farm women through their Institutes should reach out for more education in this field. She spoke of the value of an education at the Ontario Agricultural College and at Macdonald Institute and said that Institute women should advise and help young people to take this higher education to help them meet the challenge of agriculture today; Institute members could be proud of the Women's Institute scholarships.

Among the programme features bearing on Agriculture and Canadian Industries, were the Roll Calls: "A press clipping of agricultural interest", "A new industry and its products", "A new trend or policy in agriculture." Mottoes: "The love of the land lies deep in the heart of man", "The peace of the world depends on food." Papers and Talks: "Farm accident prevention", "It's better with butter", "The new Farm Credit Act", "Is farming a business or a way of life?", "Production of sun-flower oil and its use", "From log to paper", "Pasteurization and its worth", "From beet to sugar bowl."

Discussions reported dealt with Conservation, Price Supports on eggs and pork, Soil depletion due to lack of organic matter and many other subjects. Some of the projects listed were sponsoring 4H Clubs, supporting Farm Forums, helping with the farm accident survey, sending delegates to the Rural Life Conference, cleaning up neglected cemeteries. Mrs. Newhouse also reported sponsoring swimming classes for children and providing instructors and hosts and hostesses for teen-age dances. (Perhaps these don't really come under the convenership of Agriculture and Canadian Industries, but they should be reported somewhere. Ed.) "Institute tours of industrial plants have done a good public relations job for Canadian Industries," said the convener.

Mrs. Newhouse reported her experience as representative to the Conservation Council of Ontario and its work in reforestation, better land use, maintaining a market for forest products, providing park lands and playgrounds and the latest venture in camp schools.
