

Coldstream comments "We felt that our International meeting was the best of the year. It promoted better public relations in our community, as each member was asked to bring someone of another nationality. A new Canadian spoke of her recent visit to Holland."

Mt. Brydges had a "Citizenship and New Canadian evening. Two New Canadians told of customs and conditions in their native countries; their troubles in coming to a new country and how we can help them by showing them how we do things in Canada. They also felt that some of their ways are better than ours and that by being friendly we can learn from each other." Several New Canadian women have joined this Institute.

At Salford a native of Czechoslovakia set up a display of needlework from that country; and a girl in her native Ukrainian national dress played the accordion.

Sprucedale: "Giving the Unitarian Services Committee donations of clothing for Korean children gave non-attending senior or invalid members, who had not been able to participate in Institute activities, an opportunity to contribute by knitting or sewing articles which they sent to the Institute to go into the donation."

Shirley Baerger who received the Queenston - St. David's Women's Institute Scholarship this year. This Institute gives an annual scholarship of $100 to a Grade XIII girl graduate who is going to either Macdonald Institute or Teachers' College at Brock University; and the Principal says she will make a very good teacher.

Susan Shennett of South Lancaster, winner of the 1965 Ottawa Citizen award of $125. Susan has completed thirteen 4-H Homemaking Clubs.

Carol Ann Lewis, winner of East Northumberland Ontario Women's Institute scholarship. Carol Ann has graduated from high school; has her Provincial Honors in 4-H Homemaking Club work, and is now in training in Belleville General Hospital School of Nursing.

Margaret Buttar of Northumberland county has completed thirteen 4-H Homemaking Club projects; is now in Grade XIII at high school and plans to enter a nurse-in-training course this fall. Margaret is active in sports and drama, has won medals in elocution and was one of the club members chosen to represent Ontario at the National 4-H Conference in Washington this year.

Mono Road reports: "Our branch attended a Court Reception in Brampton when seventy-seven new Canadians received their citizenship papers. Afterwards we served refreshments to them and it was a great opportunity to get acquainted with these new Canadians." At this Institute's international day they had a talk on Jamaica by a nurse from that country who is on the public health staff for the area and who works with Institute members in the baby clinics.

Streetsville's International meeting included a study of both A.C.W.W. and United Nations, explaining the purpose of United Nations and the work of UNICEF, UNESCO and FAO.

Bornholm "studied the North West Territories, using the abundance of material in the Institute magazines." They are now preparing a layette for a hospital there.

Sebringville says "We took advantage of our International meeting to explain the International Scholarship Fund thoroughly." They also had a display of articles from their link institute in England.

Hillier says: "We invited the new Canadians of the township to a meeting and they put on an interesting program."