

Mrs. Aroti Dutt of Calcutta, India, President of the Associated Country Women of the World. Left—Mrs. Homer Greene, President of the Country Women's Council of the United States of America.

Learning To Live

The Twelfth Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World took place from September 3-14 at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan, U.S.A.

The theme of the conference was "Learning to Live" and was covered under four main headings — the individual, the family, the community, and the world. These topics were dealt with in educational forums which took place simultaneously on four days with outstanding keynote speakers and group discussions. Among the speakers were Miss Helen McKercher, Director of the Home Economics Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food; Dr. Margaret McCready, of the University of Guelph; and Dr. Helen Abell, of the University of Waterloo.

Hostess for the conference was the Country Women's Council of the United States of America, whose chairman is Mrs. Homer Greene of Tutwiler, Mississippi. Women's groups in the United States that are constituent societies of A.C.W.W. are American Farm Bureau Women, National Extension Homemaker's Council, National Master Farm Homemaker's Guild and Woman's National Farm and Garden Association Inc. These American women's organizations also assisted in arrangements for the conference and in entertaining the delegates.

Standing on a platform gay with flowers and with the colorful background created by flags of the thirty-two nations represented at the conference, Mrs. Aroti Dutt welcomed the