limit damage from their abuse and to check illegal trade within their own and other countries; that the Lady Aberdeen Scholarship broaden its scope to include projects and seminars on conservation; that where needed and possible affiliate societies approach appropriate authorities to set up training centres for farmers and their wives; and that there be wider dissemination of A.C.W.W. information.

Mrs. C. Diamond attended the Publicity and Publications Committee Meeting of the conference when discussions were held re subjects for the next Triennium's Essay Competition. Three subjects were recommended to General Purposes Committee for their decision: "The Country Woman's Year", "My Countryside", and "Stories From My Country's Folklore". After considering suggestions for handwork it was decided to recommend the making of a place mat using any material or technique. A craft exhibition is to be considered.

A recommendation was made that twenty free copies of leaflets will be sent out on request and a flat rate of postage charged. Additional copies may be purchased at the rate prevailing at time of request. These recommendations were sent to the Finance Committee and later accepted by the conference at one of the plenary sessions. The A.C.W.W. tea towel is to be up-dated with the new societies printed on it and the committee was given permission to make additional printings if and when necessary, depending on future sales.

Kits of small flags and identification of flags at conference are to be considered.

Mrs. Rex Rollins, F.W.I.O. delegate to the Finance Committee reported to the Board the acceptance of the preliminary Triennial Budget; the unanimous agreement that the A.C.W.W. Fund "Pennies for Friendship" retain its name, but that the societies could feel free to translate the word "Pennies" into what they feel will produce best results. Delegates were urged to encourage their members to become A.C.W.W. contributing members. Forms may be procured from the F.W.I.O. office but must be signed by the applicant and someone who is a contributing member and accompanied by three-dollar fee. Applications are to be sent to the area vice president for Canada, Mrs. J. Philip Matheson, Oyster Bed Bridge, P.E.I. who will forward it to the A.C.W.W. office. Life membership applications, the cost of which is $60, are to be sent directly to the A.C.W.W. office if applicant has previously been a contributing member.

A resolution and amendment re increasing A.C.W.W. societies dues was not sustained since a number of societies are unable to send money out of their countries. Mrs. H. Barr, Honorary Treasurer would like to receive dues from societies by December 31st. Mrs. Stanley Bride reported on the Constitution Committee Meeting which she attended when a resolution was carried that only two registered delegates from each Constituent Society be admitted to conference committee meetings but only one person to speak or vote; that the officers of the organization, one Council member from each Constituent Society and co-opted (ones with special qualifications and previous experience) members of council shall attend confer-
