

From left—Mrs. Stanley Tufts, Mrs. C. W. Hagar, Mrs. Arthur Mathews and Miss Dorothy Somerville at the celebration of the 60th anniversary of Crowland Women's Institute.

Whitechurch — Two members using the question and answer method promoted a lively discussion on "How to buy and judge shoes."

South Line Brant — Dealing with the subject "Pesticides" a speaker warned, "Never store pesticides or poisons in food containers or soft drink bottles, since children are used to these containers and may not notice a queer taste till it is too late."

St. Lawrence — Roll Call — Danger Spots In The Home.

Maple Valley — Motto — Modern Science is still trying to produce a tranquilizer more effective than a few kind words.

Belmore — A social worker described her work with preschool mentally retarded children.

Ennotville — An officer of the Ontario Provincial Police explained points of law for safety on the highway for members of this branch.

Rockalong — A mother of three totally blind children, now grown up, described the work being done by her husband and herself as foster parents of a number of emotionally disturbed and deaf children.

Past and present curators of the Bar River Branch Tweedsmuir History at a Tweedsmuir History tea, from left—Mrs. Irene Cook, Mrs. Ella Henry, Mrs. Kay Brodie and Mrs. Margaret Booth.

Picnic Grove — A speaker from the Victorian Order of Nurses explained some history and objectives of that order at a branch meeting.

Gilford — "The Plot to Make You Buy", a book for all Consumers was discussed at a branch meeting. The ladies were shown how packaging, colour, the position of the product on the shelf all affect our buying habits.

Elora — The branch is planning on compiling a cookbook featuring exotic recipes. Food produced by northern countries was the roll call at a meeting.

Embroy — A man whose business is meat grading described his occupation for the branch members.

Plattsville — "Rehabilitation rather than confinement is now the main objective in the treatment of the mentally ill," those attending a branch meeting were told by a speaker at a branch meeting.

From left—Mrs. Helen Buchanan (nee Spencer), Langstaffe 4-H Homemaking Club; Mrs. Joanne Booth (nee Cook), Edgely 4-H Homemaking Club; with Mrs. Louise Gatenby, York County Home Economist. Both Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. Booth have achieved Advanced Honours for their 4-H Homemaking Club projects.

Mountain — A Medical Officer of Health speaking to members of the Institute branch gave an address on the history and development of Boards of Health in Ontario. He said the outbreak of cholera in 1845 had led to the formation of the first board.

Donegal — A film on "Farm Management" was a program feature at a branch meeting.

Helena Feasby — "The Bee's Role in the Pollination of Flowers and Crops" was the subject of a talk at a branch meeting.