

more important than looks or brilliance or anything else is what he, or she, thinks about God, money or a crying baby'."

Worship. Of worship, Dr. Chapman said, "Men live by worship. Even those we call 'heathen' have their gods. It seems inherent in man to believe in a creating, directing power beyond himself. But worship goes beyond what we call religion. We need to cultivate a sense of wonder and reverence."

Dr. Chapman concluded her address by quoting:

Each In His Own Tongue

By William Carruth

"A fire — mist and a planet,
A crystal and a cell,
A jellyfish and a saurian
And caves where cave men dwell;
Then a sense of law and beauty
And a face turned from the clod —
Some call it Evolution
Others call it God.

A haze on the far horizon
The infinite tender sky;
The ripe rich tint of the cornfields,
And the wild geese sailing high —
And all over the upland and lowland
The charm of the goldenrod
Some of us call it Autumn
Others call it God.

A picket frozen on duty —
A mother starved for her brood,
Socrates drinking the hemlock,
And Jesus on the road;
And millions who, humble and nameless,
The straight, hard pathway trod —
Some call it Consecration
Others call it God."

Miss Jean Steckle, Associate Director of Nutrition and Home Science International Development Research Centre, Ottawa addressing the Girls' Conference.

"Homemaking Around The World"

Using slides, Miss Jean Steckle, a former Home Economist with the Home Economics Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food and now Associate Director of Nutrition and Home Science, International Development Research Centre, Ottawa addressed the conference.

Miss Steckle who has spent some time in Africa described the home life and careers of three African girls whom she had known: Letitia, a Home Science student at the University of Ghana; Rose, who had obtained her education at a mission school; and Farzi, a Libyan girl educated at a local primary school.

Miss Steckle said, "We take education for granted but education is not available to girls in many parts of the world. These three girls who have received an education returned to their home environment to teach the women ways of improving the quality of the food they prepare and to upgrade the home environment."

Miss Steckle was thanked by Miss Jill Atkin, R.R. 1, Mt. Pleasant.

Old tunes, popular long before the conference girls were born, played on the "Bells" evoked a standing ovation for the musician, Mrs. R. C. Moffat of R.R. 1, Guelph, a director of the Provincial Board of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario. Before starting her delightful program, Mrs. Moffat explained briefly how she acquired her set of tuned bells and how she became interested in playing them. Mr. Moffat assisted his wife.
