

Aylsworth Women's Institute presented a baby tender to the Emo Red Cross. From left — Mrs. George Jewell, Mrs. Hazel Goodman and Mrs. Milton Fisher.

Monkton — A speaker described his homeland Ireland at a branch meeting and explained the reasons for the present political situation there. A question period brought out some interesting information.

North Mornington — Motto — Education is not something to prepare you for life. It is a continuous part of your life.

Thessalon. Memories of the old woollen mill, Clinton's planing mill, the old Castle on The Rock and the little Presbyterian church, when members of this branch answered the roll call "A Vanishing Landmark."

Mrs. Jim Bennett receiving the first Life Membership ever presented by the Highland Park Women's Institute from Branch President Mrs. Lynn Archibald.

St. Vincent. Nine ladies from this branch put on a Quilting Demonstration at the local school to show the children the age-old art of quilting.

Oakland. At a meeting featuring local history the members were urged to start a "House Log." Some items recorded should be name of the builder and the date the house was built, name of owner and his family, changes in ownership, taxes paid, structural changes etc.

West Lincoln Junior Women's Institute enjoyed an evening during which the making of "Dip-It Flowers" were demonstrated.

★ ★ ★

To withhold deserved praise lest it should make its object conceited is as dishonest as to withhold payment of a just debt lest your creditor should spend the money badly.

George Bernard Shaw

★ ★ ★

Miss Marion Hosie, recipient of the Ottawa Area Scholarship of $100. Miss Hosie has completed 4H Homemaking Clubs and is a nurse in training at the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Winger Wainfleet — Speaking on the topic, "Looking Forward with the Women's Institute" a member used a map of Ontario to explain the levels of Women's Institute work. District arrangements and Convention Areas were specially stressed.

Kars. The report of preparation of the history of the community and a display of old heirlooms were features at the branch anniversary celebration.

Solina. Commenting on the motto, "Life is like a seed, it grows according to its care," a speaker said, "Speak, smile and use people's names, Act friendly and interested; and be generous with praise."

Bluevale — The topic for a talk and discussion was "Communication Through Music."