

With the F.W.I.O. Branches

Scugog Island W.I. did their share for the residents of the Home for the Aged. A program which included a sing-song, readings, and skit were all enjoyed, however, the most appealing part was the pleasure the residents received from the visit of the three small children who accompanied the members.

Comber W.I. prove that their older members do make a fine contribution to the programs. Three Conveners, Mrs. G. Wylie, Mrs. H. R. Rowson and Mrs. Wm. Buchanan each prepare a program and also contribute a two minute report on Family and Consumer Affairs, P.R.O., and Resolutions at each meeting.

Sked Rd. W.I. Three members of the Women's Institute presented two series of books to the A. Lye Public School. Thirty-six books in all were presented, a series on Applied Science and the other Natural Science. Money was raised at a tea to which the community was invited.

L-R Mrs. Gordon Hollard, President, Mrs. Albert Lee, Mrs. Hurley Hinds. Accepting books on behalf of the school, Richard Hoffer, assistant to the principal.

Community W.I. — Members enjoyed an evening of fellowship and fun.

Mrs. Doreen Bannister, Home Economist, congratulates Mrs. Cecil Patterson who was presented with a 15 year leaders' certificate and Miss Eleanor Smith received Advanced Honours.

Nobleton W.I. celebrated 65 years. A play written by a member, re-enacted an early Women's Institute meeting and included some early community history — fact and fiction.

Locksley-Rankin W.I. — are providing milk for some students at two schools until the end of June.

Cardinal W.I. petitioned authorities to move highway road signs to a more appropriate location.

Wilvancrest W.I. Mrs. Nicole Jamieson estimates 225 girls have taken 4-H projects under her guidance. One of her first club girls Mrs. Robert Norman (L) and one of the present club members Donna Prorack honour her, while charter member Mrs. Morley Wheeler expresses a "Thank you".

Bridgeport W.I. What can you do with old tin cans? By recycling them you can make many beautiful articles. Mrs. Lewis of Guelph had the answers as she demonstrated. Cans were turned into candleholders, lamps, candy dishes, picture frames.

North Derby W.I. — roll call "The service we sell is sold by the service we give."
