HOME

By RAYMOND W. EBERHARDT

Home is a priceless stronghold
 If family ties are bound.
 By faithful trust and wholesome love,
 There happiness is found

Home is a secret stronghold
 Away from worldly cares
 Where we invite our good friends in
 To share our easy chairs.

Home is a private palace
 That bears its whispered tears
 With promise that the future holds
 Contentment through the years.

Home is a shining citadel
 The centre of all pleasure.
 It weaves a web of childhood days . . .
 Memories to treasure.
