

WI's On The Go!

Navan, Russell District

The former owner of a rural telephone system was the guest speaker at a recent Navan meeting. He brought along some of the original minute books of the organization and read several items. Also, former telephone operators were guests and they talked about some of the funny things that happened during their calling days. The program was recorded on cassette tape for others to enjoy in the future.

Erland Lee (Museum) Home

The committee nominated Margaret Zoeller and Mary Miller for service awards, given by the Ontario Ministry of Citizenship and Culture. In recognition of their work at the Home, both received lapel pins and embossed certificates at a special ceremony and reception.

Shirley, Ontario South District

Members and husbands enjoyed a tour of the Darlington Nuclear Plant in the fall, which they took in conjunction with their 75th anniversary activities.

Wellington Centre District

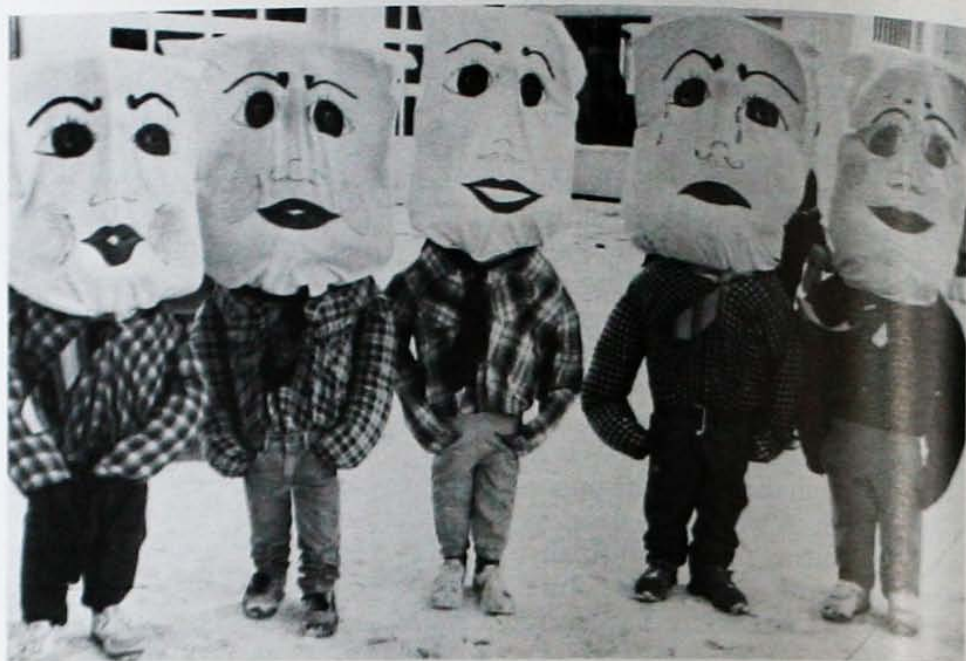

At its annual meeting, a special guest speaker talked about the current advertising trends among the large marketing boards. She pointed out there are six important food trends which affect advertising and marketing. They are: the heightened awareness among consumers of obesity and the desire for weight control; consumers cutting down their fat intake; the relationship between calcium and osteoporosis; reduced salt, sugar, additives and caffeine intake; more convenience foods; and increased use of vitamin supplements.

Providence Shaw's, Durham West District

As a follow-up to the story which appeared on page 5 of the April, May, June issue of Home & Country, this branch organized a clean up campaign. Co-ordinators of the project are Isabelle Elliott and Margaret Killeen.
