Preparing a will

1. The lawyer or accountant — either individual may have had a long, close and successful relationship with the testator and/or her family. There may be almost total knowledge of the assets and liabilities of the estate and full confidence by the testator and the remaining family. However, the lawyer or accountant may not have the time or necessary interest to act.

2. The trust company — There are advantages in having a trust company as executor, such as professional status, no problems with disinterested and non-experience. On the other hand, they usually claim full compensation allowed, and lack sometimes in feeling and may be bureaucratic.

If you need help concerning a lawyer to assist you with a will, contact the Law Society of Upper Canada's Lawyer Referral Service or the Ontario Legal Aid Plan. Both numbers are in the yellow pages under lawyers.
