Butler Project update

By Ilene Chesterman

What ever happened to the Butler Project? (A project to reproduce prints of livestock for placement in Ontario schools.)

The transparencies are done. Typesetting for French translation is in progress.

Members of the Butler Project Committee have been working on corporate fundraising. Money is still coming in from Women's Institute branches and money already received from government and WI has been invested in a high interest account.

The Butler Project Committee have on a number of occasions set up a petting farm in return for a donation and exposure to the public, such as the Canada Day Party for children in Woodstock and at the Woodstock Public Library.

Our chairperson, Beth Deslippe, attended the Agriculture in the Classroom workshop in London and workshops and displays have been taken to area conventions and professional development days.

Donations can be sent to The Butler Project, c/o The Royal Bank of Canada, Thamesford, N0M 2M0.
