

Susan De Haan (centre), Public Relations Officer for the North Renfrew District WI, had her temperature checked by Kathryn Brum (right), Assistant Executive Director of Hospital Services at the Pembroke Civic Hospital. Watching the test is Peggy Marcus (left), the Institute's past PRO. The Institute donated $500 towards the purchase of the tympanic thermometer, which measures body temperature from the tympanic membrane of the ear drum. The money was the proceeds from a District Cheesecake Tea.

More than 100 women discovered a fascinating way to beat the winter blahs! They attended two of nine workshops organized by the Halton and Wellington District Education Committee. The workshops covered reflexology, preparing and delivering a speech, women's medical and health care issues of the '90's, tatting, smocking, crocheting, knitting, the use of herbs in cooking, and sewing. Recycling - at the forefront of Women's Institute work throughout Ontario - was the focus of the sewing workshop titled "Something New from Something Old." Sewing machines were humming as Ann Graham (left) and Emma Hasson (right) made a child's clothing item from a discarded pair of denim jeans. Ruth Laking, an accomplished sewer from Arkell, led the class.

Send a list of all the Executive members and their addresses and telephone numbers to the WI level immediately above and below yours. This will speed up the relay of information between levels within the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario and improve communication considerably. Don't forget, do it now!
