

SILVER CROSS MOTHERS, those who lost sons in service to country, gathered in a group among numerous friends and citizens on Monday morning at Arnprior's Cenotaph for the remembrance ceremony of the 50th anniversary of Armistice, Nov. 11, 1918. Chosen to lay the Silver Cross wreath was Mrs. Ernest Kopetoski and she is shown above performing this sentimental duty on the steps of the Cenotaph as the honour guard of Sam Carter and Bill Verth stand in the stillness of reverence and respect for fallen comrades. A young Arnprior man, well remembered by his school chums, Emerson Ernest Kopetoski, answered the call of duty and served overseas for three years and was attached to the Stormont and Glengarry Highlanders. He gave his life on June 8, 1944, on the third day of the Normandy invasion. (GUIDEVIEW)
