

Wedding Bells

FISCHER - COLVIN

Knox Presbyterian Church, Teeswater was the setting for the candlelight ceremony uniting Juanita Gaye Colvin and Larry Joseph Fischer. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Shaw on Saturday, Nov. 16, 1985 at 6:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colvin of R.R. 2, Teeswater and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Fischer of Teeswater.

The altar was tastefully decorated with globe candelabras accented with red roses, white stephanotis and holly. The aisle was enhanced with single globe candelabras marking the pews, decorated with red roses, white bows and holly. Accenting the church windows were white decorative candles with red bows in a bed of evergreens.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, chose an elegant gown of polyester sheer with a high madrin neckline and basque waistline. The bodice of the dress was covered in Schiffler embroidery and tiny seed pearls. The gown featured long Leg-o mutton sleeves with wide cuffs of lace. A plain skirt fell from the waistline to a hemline border of Schiffler embroidery and onto a full cathedral train. She wore a coach style hat of satin covered in tiny seed pearls with a full length flowing veil.

Shannon Colvin, sister of the bride, was the maid of honour. Bridesmaids were Wanda Inglis and Sonya Graham, sisters of the bride; Kathy Fischer, sister of the groom; and Trudy Short, friend of the bride.

The members of the bride's party were dressed alike in two piece gowns of red satin. The dresses had shoe string straps and were accented at the waist with wide pleated cummerbunds. The waist length jackets had short puffed sleeves tapering to the arm and gathered stand up collars. The girls wore identical hair pieces of red netting, while stephanotis and holly. They carried lit hurricane lanterns accented with red roses, white stephanotis and holly.

The flowergirl was Kelly Fischer, niece of the groom. She wore a knee length dress of white lace accented with red ribbon and gathered at the waist with a red bow. Kelly wore a head piece of white stephanotis and baby's breath. She carried a white basket of red roses, white stephanotis, ivy and holly.

The best man was Brad Colvin, brother of the bride. Guests were ushered by George and Ken Fischer, brothers of the groom; Mike Hunter, cousin of the bride; and Karl Whytock, friend of the groom.

The members of the groom's party were dressed in black tuxedos, accented with red ties and cummerbunds. The groom chose a black tuxedo with black tie and cummerbund.

The ringbearer was Joshua Inglis and train bearer was Jeremy Inglis, both nephews of the bride. Joshua and Jeremy were dressed alike in black tuxedos and tails accented with red ties and cummerbunds.

Just prior to the ceremony the lights were dimmed and the array of candles were lit by the ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by friends of the bride and groom. Alan Kieller, violinist, accompanied by Lisa Armstrong, played Edlewiess and Ave Marie. Lisa also played the love theme from Romeo and Juliet. Brian King sang, If, Because, and Longer, accompanied by Lisa on the piano.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Teeswater Culross community centre. Music was supplied by Advanced Audio Systems.

For receiving guests, the bride's mother chose a periwinkle blue street length dress of polyester sheer. The pleated overjacket featured, long sleeves and a quaker collar with embroidered scalloped edges. Her outfit was accented with a periwinkle blue hat and navy accessories. She wore a co-ordinating corsage of roses.

The groom's mother chose a midnight blue street length dress of polyester sheer. The dress featured dolman sleeves, a criss-cross drape to the waist and a flowing skirt. Her outfit was accented with a winter white hat and navy accessories. She wore a co-ordinating corsage of roses.

For going away the bride chose a grey and black pinstripe suit with red accessories. She also wore a black flannel hat trimmed with red. The groom wore a grey sports coat black pants and red accessories.

Following a wedding trip to Margarita Island, Venezuela, Juanita and Larry took up residence in Cambridge.

Maitland Presbyterial met in Wingham

The Women's Missionary Societies of Maitland Presbyterial held their annual meeting on Jan. 20 at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Wingham with 65 in attendance.

President, Mrs. Robert Bregman constituted the meeting at 10:30 a.m. with prayer. The morning session included a welcome by Mrs. Hugh Clugston, minutes and roll call. Rev. Larry Welch of Bluevale brought greetings from Presbytery and commended the work being done. He told us to keep in mind the whole church which is mission-oriented.

The treasurer reported we had exceeded our allocation of $18,650. The suggested allocation for 1986 was $19,845, and it was accepted. Mrs. Don Robertson and Mrs. Hugh Nugent were thanked for printing the reports.

The theme of the afternoon session was "Sharing the Journey" and began with a film presentation on Native People by Mrs. Robert Arbuckle and Mrs. George Elliott, Brussels. The film is available to all groups from Mrs. Arbuckle. Ladies from Teeswater W.M.S. led in devotions, with Scripture read by Mrs. Wm. McInnes, meditation by Mrs. John MacDonald who said, "Life is impossible without God. We must share the journey without family, friends, and others". Mrs. Clifford Young led in prayer. Mrs. Paul Mills was pianist for the hymns.

The offering was received and was dedicated by Mrs. Wm. Rintoul, Whitechurch. The various secretaries reports were accepted. Delegates were named to attend Synodical annual meeting at St. Andrew's Welland on April 22, 23. Mrs. Bregman, retiring president commented on the president's activities during her three year term of office.

Mrs. Ted English presided for the election and installation of officers. Mrs. Evan Keith, new president, then presided and compared Maitland Presbyterial to an English garden with 19 plots (societies) each of different size but each doing its best. Courtesies were given by Mrs. Ross Cumming and closing prayer was given by Mrs. Alex MacLeod, Brussels.

Earl and Audrey Fitch and Bill and Bonnie Taylor were top curlers at the annual bonspiel held in Belmore last week, sponsored by Gay Lea Foods. Next in line for awards were Rod and Susan Wright and Paul and Chris Dickson.

The event which started last Sunday evening with a wine and cheese party created tremendous enthusiasm within the Belmore Club which has about 125 members. At this party, tickets were drawn to determine which players would begin the bonspiel.

It was a double knock-out tournament and as the week progressed games were played every night at 7 and 9 p.m. Large crowds attended which created added flavour and excitement to the entire event. Sixteen rinks participate. On Sunday at 5 p.m., a pot luck supper was enjoyed by all and the curlers were presented with trophies and a wide variety of dairy products by the sponsors. Directors of Gay Lea from Goderich and Exeter and Wroxeter were among the spectators and attended the supper. Each addressed the gathering briefly. Eight bonspiels are sponsored every year in this area by this company.

On Saturday evening, the curlers sponsored a dance in the community centre which was very well attended.
