

THESE PEOPLE MAKE up your Old Boys and Old Girls Reunion Committee. Front row, left to right, are June Daniel, Sally Bolleau, Joyce Gordon, Nancy Struck, Vera Potice, Wanita Fletcher, and Ellen McFadyen. Next row, left to right, are Wilma Chapman, Shirley Ackert, Bonnie Colwell, Vickie Emmerton, Joy Manley, Barb Fisher, Shella Petteplace, Marilyn

0

6

7

7

2

2

2

-

3

2 9

Cottrill, John Adams, Henry Lamont, Harry Smiley, Cliff Hewitt, Mike Palmer, Percy Gregg and Dave Struck. Top row, left to right, are Larry Bannerman, Harry Chapman, Herb Emmerton, Jack Graham, Don Stone, Jack Tufford, Don McKeeman, Duncan McFadyen, Rod Kearns, Bill Nagel, Martin Quinn, John Slade, Keith Davidson, Don Turcotte, Doug

THE SHOE SHOP

DOWNTOWN KINCARDINE (next to the "Old Royal")

396-4922

CAROL HANKS

THE SHOE SHOP is into its second year of business in downtown Kincardine. Owner Paul McLelland, along with staffer Carol Hanks welcome everyone to drop in and browse around. If it's comfortable, fashionable factwear your looking for, look no further than THE SHOE SHOP.

Volunteers improve citizens' quality of life

From page 1A - 7A Wilken has served as past president and key teacher for Walkerton-Hanover Branch of the Retired Women Teachers' of Ontario group. Wilken pays tribute to the efforts of the executive who helped her in this position.

She was the organizer of the Forget - Me - Not Tree campaign for the Alzheimer Society in Kincardine for three years. She served as secretary of the South Bruce Heart & Stroke Association and assisted with the 'Celebrity dinner" event for

Eva also trained for, and assisted with the Kumon Math Centre while it operated in Kincardine and she was a school volunteer for a brief

Wilken has also used her teaching experience for home tutoring and supply teaching. In addition, she was a member of the visitation committee taking home communion to shut-ins from the Church of Messiah

Eva was raised in Huron Two, and later moved to Kincardine where she currently resides with husband Carl. They have two sons, Paul and Dan, and seven grandchildren.

Eva honoured with Zehrs Markets Quality of Life award

Eva Wilken

By Marie Wilson Kincardine News staff

Kincardine resident Eva Wilken is a firm believer in the adage that "the more you give, the more you get," And in Eva's words, what you get from giving to others is "satisfaction in the heart."

Wilken is the recipient of the Zehrs Markets Quality of Life Award. This brand new award, given out by the Kincardine & District Chamber of Commerce, recognizes an individual, busi-zation for outstanding contribution to the quality of life of a person, group, or communi-

Like most people who give of themselves freely without expecting anything in return, Wilken was surprised to be chosen for the award and is accepting it in humble fashion.

"I'm not sure why it was me and I wish there was someway to recognize all those who contribute to the good of the community. There's a lot of good news ness or not-for-profit organi- out there if you look for it," at W.E. Thompson Public School from 1965 - 1992, Wilken said when you're in a career and raising a family that takes most of your focus, but since retiring she has enjoyed expanding her life experience through volunteering.

A teacher

Wilken is a volunteer driver for three seniors at Malcolm Place and she regularly takes them to church, doctors' appointments and shopping. She is a warden at St. Luke's Anglican church in Pine River where she is also the secretary treasurer of the A.C.W. Wilken serves as president of the Saugeen A.C.W. at a deanery level.

In addition to her church related activities, Wilken volunteers, along with several other dedicated members, or the school exhibit division committee.

She helps out at The Clothes Hamper in Kincardine on occasion and clips obituaries for the Genealogy Group at the Kincardine Library.

See EXPANDS page 7A