

Scenes from Rotary Home Show at Community Centre

Home show attracts 1,000

Between 900 and 1,000 people visited the Chesley Community Centre Friday night and Saturday for the town's first ever Home, Garden, Recreation and Craft show.

While there, they viewed a wide variety of displays which included everything from new vehicles to small arts and crafts.

The show, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Chesley, was judged a success, although Rotary members would have been pleased with a higher attendance.

Many of the exhibitors were pleased with the turnout at the show and some were busy signing up for next year, as Saturday's hours drew to a close.

Tim Fraser, who was chairman of the show committee for the Rotary Club, said the organizers were very pleased with the various displays brought by the businesses. On behalf of the club Mr. Fraser expressed a sincere thanks to those who participated in the show and to everyone who visited.

He said the club would examine the date of the event for next year. It was changed once because it conflicted with the home show in Walkerton. However, this past weekend it ran into competition from similar shows in Port Elgin and Owen Sound.

Among the businesses with displays at the show, a number held draws for visitors. The winners included Bob Young, Marion Golem and Dorothy Miskie who won wheel alignment and balancing work from Rick Steffler of Durham, June Fritsch who won two gallons of paint from Millers Painting and Sandblasting in Elmwood, Robert Darling of Hanover who won a gas barbecue from Investors Syndicate and Mary Golem who won a discount on a facial from Mary Kay Cosmetics.
