

The McClure family really captured the Bicentennial spirit on Saturday afternoon when they donned their centennial dress for the dedication ceremonies at Elliott Park. From left to right are, Bill McClure, son, Bob, age 6; daughters, Majesta, 3, and Mary Jill and wife,

Faye. Behind them is the newly-painted cast fountain which used to adorn the Elliott home, which later became the old Chesley Hospital. Bill McClure is a great-great-grandson of Chesley's founder.

Clarence Lange, president of the Chesley Horticultural Society and Ivan Buoy, chairman of the Parks Committee, had some difficulty trying to raise the Canadian and Ontario Bicentennial flags during the dedication ceremonies at Elliott Park on Saturday afternoon, but, the flags did go up and now wave proudly.
