

Let us be done with fault finding and leave off self seeking.

Fault finding has a constant companion called selfishness. We may not be selfish for ourselves, but for our loved ones and friends. We want them to have the chief seats and to get all the bows and best of everything. As in fault finding we are a nation of fault finders. Why! We find fault with our Govt, our Dis, our ministers, our teachers, and our neighbors and the way they train their children. All wrong but me & mine. When we elect our officers do not criticize but stand behind them;

The next clause calls for being ourselves, standing for truth and honour, able to meet each other without fear. Knowing we have given no cause for offence, not courting undeserved praise, nor broadcasting mean, underhand motives and suspicion. In the next phase we ask to put our best impulses forward. How many of us think we should write a letter of cheer to a friend, send a card or pay a call on a sick one, afraid our motives might be understood. Why not put forth our best impulse & see. Are we hasty in judgment - Yes! Sometimes we hit the nail on the head but often are
