

Kindness is ^{to} do & say the kindest thing in the kindest way.

Kindness has a twin sister called courtesy - they have come down hand in hand through the ages. We see them in the school room with teachers instilling fair play & right living, again among the depressed and discouraged, among the sorrowing, in the skillful hands of Drs. and nurses, and again helping the feeble and aged. There is nothing so kingly as kindness.

As we repeat this Collect may we strive to remember "This is a prayer not a chant and may each phrase be said with reverence and sincerity"
