Celebrating 50 years together

Fred and Daisy Barnes celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last Wednesday, September 6. At right, they are shown holding a congratulatory scroll from M. P. Murray Cardiff. In the foreground is a note from Governor General Jeanne Sauvé. The couple would like to thank all their friends and family for sending the many cards and flowers. For a bit more information on the couple, see page 27.

Congratulations, Heather and Douglas Jacklin, as you celebrate your first wedding anniversary. Heather and Douglas were married October 20, 1991, at Port Elgin United Church with Rev. Gordon Williams officiating. Heather is the daughter of Harry and Anne Schildroth, RR 1, Port Elgin, and Douglas is the son of Marion and James Jacklin, of Chesley. The happy couple are now residing in Almonte, Ontario.

loch will reside for the next year. In this French speaking community she'll attend College de Notre Dame de Belle Vue, a private Catholic school.

As readers read this, McCulloch will have already arrived at the home of her first host family. Belgium and the town of Dinant will be more than just vous. But touching down in Europe meant they all had to go their separate ways. They all had to face the fact that they are alone in a foreign country.

A new found independence

And that may have Mary's mother feeling a bit apprehensive, as it would any parent. She's confident, however, that her daughter will adjust to her new found independence.

something she has imagined for the past few months.

McCulloch called her mother Joan when she arrived at the Brussels airport.

"She's all right . . . I think," said her mother. "Now she realizes that she's in a foreign country and she has to learn."

McCulloch travelled to Belgium with eleven other Rotary Exchange students from the area. Upon their departure they were all excited and ner-
