

THE FARMER'S ADVOCATE

Portrait of Adelaide Hoodless Among Treasures of Canada.

Instead of giving way to grief and despair over the death of a beloved little son, Mrs. John Hoodless of Stoney Creek, resolved to do what she could that other mothers might be spared her sorrow, a sorrow made bitter by the fact that her own ignorance of nutrition had caused the tragedy. Because the emotion that inspired the movement is universal—love for children and desire to protect them—the Women's Institute begun in a Canadian village has encircled the earth. Many know the name of Canada because they are enlisted in this association, and Canada has honoured the founder of the Women's Institutes and of Macdonald Institute, O.A.C., Guelph, by placing this portrait in the Dominion Archives. At the unveiling of the portrait by Mrs. Raymond Sayre, Ackworth, Iowa, President, Associated Country Women of the World (on right), the ceremony was watched by Mrs. J. B. Peck, Montreal, daughter of Mrs. Hoodless, and Secretary of State, the Hon. F. Gordon Bradley.
