

PRESBYTERIAN CENTENNIAL QUILT

This quilt was made by the Scotland W.M.S. in Cobden, Ont. It is a blue and white cotton quilt, and the large white panels on either side carry the written names of many of the parishioners. The central panel, separated in white areas by blue bands, gives the emblems of the Presbyterian church, namely the burning bush.

This quilt was gift to the Rev. J.K. Earl and his wife, Arlene (Miller) Earl on the occassion of his retirement. This quilt is now the property of Mrs. Vera Hogeboom, Mrs. Earl's younger sister.
