

Saturday, June 23, 2007
The Kingston Whig-Standard

FEATURES

THE TICKET ■ 11

One man's artistic island

When television journalist Terry Culbert gave up his day job, he retired to bucolic Amherst Island where he captures island life in humorous, Maude Lewis-esque paintings with names like You've Got Mail, Pie Island and Republic, which imagines life if the island separated from the rest of Canada. ■ SEE PAGES 10 & 11

Michael Lea/The Whig-Standard

209