It was on this table that the Women's Institute Constitution was penned by Janet Lee in 1897.

Six leather upholstered chairs. They have been redone in red velvet.

The dinner bell -- a set of four brass bells with pleasing tones, bought by Hilda Lee, "who was very fond of bells and had them all over the house.

The sideboard, also in the dining room belonged to the Chisholm's. Janet had it made by a cabinet maker in Hamilton from walnut on the Lee farm.
