PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY is a rich farming community, noted for its fine canning crops - tomatoes, peas, corn, pumpkins and small fruits; its dairy farms from which comes the finest cheddar cheese; its orchards, producing world-renowned apples.

PRINCE EDWARD is one of the most prosperous rural districts in Ontario.

ITS singular geographical position indicates that nature intended it to be the holiday's paradise, endowing it with all the advantages appreciated by tourists.

PRINCE EDWARD, with a wealth of historical traditions, traces its story back to the United Empire loyalists, its people today tenaciously preserve the intense patriotism of their forebears.

The three centres of population are - Picton, the county town - population 3560.
 Bloomfield, a prosperous canning village of 669 people - Wellington, enterprise - each of the seven townships shares the four hundred miles of shoreline.
 The many edge by bays and headwaters entice the motorist to investigate their beauties - the people of Prince Edward are noted for their honesty, frankness, and friendly hospitality. If one should
