Re: LEGAL DEPOSIT OF CD-ROMs

We have recently seen a reference to the publication(s) listed on the attached page and we would like to obtain copies for the Library and Archives Canada. The deposit provisions of the Library and Archives of Canada Act, require Canadian publishers to send two copies of their publications to the Library and Archives Canada.

Until 1993, these provisions were limited to books, sound recordings, periodicals, multimedia kits and microforms. Most recently, legal deposit has been extended to include CD-ROMs published after January 1, 1993. Further information regarding the regulations may be found in the enclosed leaflet.

In order to complete our holdings, we would appreciate it if you would send us the required two deposit copies of the item listed above with all associated user software and documentation, as well as any other CD-ROMs you may publish in the future.

Material received on legal deposit is preserved in the permanent collection of the Library and Archives Canada, where it is available for consultation and research. Titles are also listed in the national bibliography. For your convenience, we are enclosing a mailing label and a form to be completed and returned with the CD-ROMs. Additional labels and forms are available upon request.

Thank you for your co-operation.
