To the mansion

The Mansion on the Hill, Cambrocourt Manor (Embro) apartment complex for seniors, received donations of two flowering crabs from Highland Park students Monday.

School buses stopped at the complex before classes Monday so students could participate in the tree planting ceremony with members of the Embro-West Zorra Optimists.

Also presented at that time were funds for the purchase of vertical blinds - $3,000 came from the Opti-Mrs club, now members of the Optimists. An additional $7,000 for lounge furniture was donated by the Optimists.

Ross and Jean Smith of Highland Tours donated a grandfather clock for the lobby area.
