

Loading up

A trailer truck backs in a container to be filled with 50-kilogram bags of corn donated for Third World countries through the Canadian Foodgrains Bank. The containers are lifted off the flatbed onto the ship where it leaves New York to Mozambique.

Wednesday April 1 / 1992 3

Donating corn for Third World...

involving the entire community just south of Stratford. Many country residents in a four-mile radius of Brooksdale, get involved in the undertaking.

Again this year, corn has been bagged at the farm of Allan and Carol Innes, of RR 2 Embro, to be shipped to Mozambique.

Those working on the project hoped to fill 11 containers in about six days. Each container holds 18 metric tonnes, so the total collected could be approximately 200 tonnes.

About seven or eight volunteer men per day are needed to load and handle the corn.

Mrs. Innes made hot meals for the men and if help was needed, the neighbors nearby pitched in.

The corn to be shipped includes both corn donated by Ontario producers and corn purchased with cash donations. Ten church groups are partners in the Canadian Foodgrains Bank, a unique non-profit agency which matches grain collections with needs from Third World countries.

Grain and cash donations to the bank are matched three to one by the Canadian International Development Agency at the time of the shipment.

Any donations for corn are still welcome and will be forwarded to the Canadian Foodgrains Bank headquarters in Winnipeg.