

She herself was the hostess for this meeting in retrospect. Mrs. Florence Leeming acted as president and Mrs. Douglas Deviney as secretary. The members were Mrs. John Harpley, Mrs. Frank Cooney, Mrs. Nelson Usher, Mrs. Ralph Leeman, Mrs. Gordon Broomfield, Mrs. James Deviney and Mrs. Edward Barlow. The stage was furnished in the manner of a living room of the time with the costumes of the members to match. The ladies, on being greeted by their hostess, exclaimed at the difficulties in harnessing and driving horses and of how a horseless carriage one of them met, frightened her horse. Mrs. Nelson Usher recited the well-known verse beginning, "Breathes there the man with soul so dead, Who never to himself hath said, 'This is my own, my native land'." Mrs. James Deviney reported on Girls' Club activities and Mrs. Leeming conducted the Question Box. Members gave answers to such queries as how to keep the butter sweet and fresh; how hot should the water be to scald a pig; what is meant by pasteurized milk. The anniversary meeting closed with the National Anthem. The Institute Grace was sung and the 50th anniversary cake was cut by Mrs. J. G. Waite, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Findley, Sr. A delicious lunch was served by the members under the capable supervision of Mrs. Wallace Rutherford.

Mrs. Clifford Gillespie, in a gown of the early 1900's, told of the forming of the Wicklow-Vernonville Branch at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Winter, in May, 1914. The first president was Mrs. J. G. Waite, the first secretary was Mrs. Eldred Lean (formerly Miss Florence Hall). Mrs. Gillespie told how much of the work done in the early years was directed toward the war effort of World War I. From information obtained from old minute books, Mrs. Gillespie wrote and produced a skit using the minutes of the October meeting of 1917 as a basis for her characters and their speeches.

Mrs. Goodfellow congratulated the members of the branch on attaining their 50th year in W.I. work. She spoke of the A.C.W.W., its founding and its aims. Mrs. Goodfellow reminded her listeners that they are all members of the organization, Associated Country Women of the World, six and a half million rural women from 40 countries. "Coins for Friendship" were explained, their distribution and uses. She said, in conclusion, that there is still much to be done in promoting international understanding and good will. Each member must work at it and do her best. On behalf of the branch, Mrs. Ralph Simpson thanked the speaker and presented her with a token of their appreciation. Mrs. Frank Brown, past president of the West Northumberland District, drew the ticket for the quilt made by some of the members, the holder of the winning number being Mrs. Ralph Simpson. Mrs. M. Rutherford, a former member, conducted a sing song of old-time favourites.
